DEAR ALUMNI:

The pleasantest School sounds occur in November and April. The first is the rumbling, swishing noise of skates on black ice; the other is a clatter of horses' hoofs, as the rowing barges start for Long Pond! Today we have been rejoicing in wonderful ice. How I wish that you might have either been skating thereon or walking around the path to watch the hundreds of figures having their first real skate of the season. In the "Gulf of Mexico" a rink was welcoming the hockey squad; and all over the pond, encircled protectingly by glistening pines, stalwart sixth formers and very tentative beginners experienced the most oxygenated of afternoons!

So charming is open skating and so relatively infrequent, that two years ago we asked Mr. Delbos, who taught Drawing here, to do a wintry scene before the rinks went up. This big canvas, now in the Lower School dining room, shall be photographed for the ALUMNI HORAE, just to give a notion of what you might have seen, had you stood on the Lower School boating promontory, looking southeastward.

Isn't it fortunate that our skating is really part of the School grounds? We don't have to go to it a long way. It's right in our midst, recalling those Dutch skating scenes, and Hans Brinker, when ice life and daily life seem to merge. (Speaking of skating pictures, we have recently borrowed through the kindness of the Metropolitan Museum of Art seven fine canvases for the winter. Did you know that Art Museums will generously lend a collection of very good pictures to a School like this? One of these pictures is a Dutch view, with a village church and frozen canals and old Dutchmen pushing their wives around on comfortable sleds, and all the village living on the ice. This picture, hanging in the common room of Hargate, somehow echoes the view herewith reproduced.)

From the pond I walked up the Fiske Road to our new swimming pool. Not just the day for a plunge! but none the less beguiling as one thinks of spring. Thanks to Dr. Charles Hart ('84-'88), we have been able to transform the old School reservoir into a splendid pool. It's not fancy or rectangular, but has kept its "old swimming hole" qualities. At the diving point there are fourteen feet of water, and the total surface area is 10,000 sq. ft., three times that of the Upper School dining room. When all the blasting and clearing of this fine granite basin was completed last Friday, we redirected the gushing brook from Prospect Hill to its proper channel, and, so heavy have been the recent rains, by this morning the pool is practically full. A splendid permanent swimming place, with fresh cool water, to be reached by any agile boy in five minutes from his room. Generations will unconsciously bless Dr. Hart, to whom I have gratefully quoted Psalm XLII v. 1!

From the pool I drove with J. T. Walker, that ever-best of Business Managers, to the School Farm, and there we decided on a site for an incinerator! Any householder will agree that an establishment of about 600 people will collect a fair amount of refuse every day. Our accommodations for disposal, long since inadequate, are now outgrown, and we find that with old brick and small expenditure we can construct a neat little structure for incineration.

At this point you will say: Skating, swimming, incinerating! Ice, brooks, garbage! Can this man be living at and writing about a School? Yes, dear Alumnus reader, it is a School. There is plenty of chalk dust flying about, and some forty-nine teachers are most of the day working at, with, and for some 430 boys. As I write, they go roaring down those iron staircases outside of this study. It isn't all swimming and skating at St. Paul's, but (not to hurt your feelings) when one writes to the Alumni, one dwells on those items which probably will interest them the more! And here in conclusion, just to be thoroughly non-scholastic, is a reminder. The afternoon mail brings a letter about blazers, those School blazers that any old boy may have; blue with brass buttons, and the embroidered shield of his School emblazoning the pocket. Don't you remember how you were urged to save up $17 and buy a School blazer to wear, among other times, always at breakfast on Sunday mornings? Not nearly enough Alumni have provided themselves with blazers. I dwell with sixth formers on the pleasant thought of Alumni all the way from Park Avenue to sandy Sahara coming down to breakfast every Sunday morning wearing their School blazers! It is a mere sentiment, I grant, — but the older one grows, somehow the deeper and sweeter seem the sentiments of life.

From The School in Action you will learn a lot of facts. We have recently sent each one of you an Annual Report, with a lot more facts. You understand, this isn't an article or a formal document. It's just a letter from friend to friend. I have been jotting down the happy routine of this afternoon, when, had you been here, wouldn't you have had a thoroughly good time!

Faithfully yours,

S. S. DRURY.

THE SCHOOL IN ACTION
By An Alumnus Master

The school year started on Tuesday, September 20th, with the arrival of one hundred and thirteen new boys. The next day, the old boys returned, making a total enrollment of four hundred and thirty-nine — the largest that the school has ever had. There are fifty-seven new boys who are related to Alumni.

Club football started very soon after the opening of school, and the first game of the First Club Series was a scoreless tie between the Isthmians and Delphians, on October 5th. The Delphians beat the Old Hundreds on October 8th, by a 7—2 score, in a game which was hard and well played by both sides. On October 12th, the Old Hundreds beat the Isthmians 3—0, although their superiority was greater than the score would indicate. It began to be apparent that the series was to be a long and close one. The games continued:

October 15th: Delphians 13, Isthmians 0.
October 19th: Old Hundreds 2, Delphians 0.
October 22nd: Old Hundreds 7, Isthmians 0.
October 26th: Delphians 13, Isthmians 0.
October 29th: Delphians 9, Old Hundreds 0.

Thus the Delphians won their first Championship since 1928. The interest of the whole school was very keen, and the play good.

The new regulations, which made bigger squads on all teams; shorter periods and more substitution, has proved very sound in practice.
The Lower School, this year, played Rugby, instead of American Football. It was thought to be a game which combined excellent training in the fundamentals of football, such as handling the ball and tackling, with more action and less intensive signal work, which makes it good training and more sport for the Lower Schoolers.

I must say a word of how well both teams played in the Groton game, and how pleasant it was to have a return visit from Groton, and a chance to entertain them, since we all remember their cordial hospitality last year. The spirit and hard work of the S.P.S. can not be over stated, and it was a team of which the whole school was justly proud.

The Cross-Country runs were very popular this year, and were won hands down by the Delphians, led courageously by Captain Walker, who has turned into an excellent long distance runner. He easily won each of three runs. The Old Hundreds were second, the Isthmians last.

Thanksgiving Day was as enjoyable as it always is, with the Chapel Service with Mr. Knox's hymns, in the morning, and then the Shoot, won by Watkins, of the Third Form. The ever-amazing Scientific Exhibition, which shows hard and good work, and interests all of us, was in the afternoon, and the school play — Galsworthy's Escape, was the best that we can remember. It is a fine thing that there should be so many activities in which all who display talent or interest of any kind can take part. It prevents this from becoming a narrow place.

There are five new masters this year, of whom four are alumni. They are:
Mr. Christopher J. Thomas, who has had extensive experience here and abroad, who is the new Choir Master, and in general charge of music in the school;
Mr. Charles Greenough Chase, (1922-1926), who is to teach Mathematics;
Mr. Ludlow Elliman (1923-1927), who has come from abroad to teach French;
Mr. Caspar Wister (1923-1928), from Princeton, who teaches English, and,
Mr. Langdon Lea, Jr. (1923-1928), also from Princeton and who teaches Latin.

The only physical change in the school has been the rebuilding of the cloister around the Big Study, which was in danger of falling down.

The Council and all its subsidiary bodies, such as Supervisors, Inspectors and House Committees, are working hard and well to maintain a very fine feeling and point of view. The Council is:

Frederick Hiester Brooke, Jr., President
Jack Middleton, Vice-President
Frederick Peter Jordan, Secretary
Arthur Watson Cocroft, Treasurer
Oliver De Gray Vanderbilt
Earle Newton Cutler, Jr.

John Clinton Work, Jr.
Samuel Lord Brookfield
William H. Moore
Pieter Whitney Fosburgh
John Thompson Bissell
Francis Skiddy Von Stade, Jr.

John Nesmith
In a sad accident on November 25th, Mr. Foote, for thirteen years the Verger of the New Chapel, received injuries from which he died. The funeral was held in the New Chapel on November 29th, and was attended by many boys.

Our Autumn term has been a very busy one, and I feel I have not touched on much that would interest you, but I must stop this long letter, or it will never go to press on time. We have had general skating for several days, and the S.P.S. hockey team has had more practice for the Princeton game than for many years past. Winter is all but upon us, and all goes well.

PRINCETON FRESHMAN vs. ST. PAUL'S SCHOOL

FROM THE EDITOR OF THE SCHOOL HISTORY

Many Alumni have very kindly sent me reminiscences of life in the school for possible use in the history for which I am compiling material. I should be glad to receive other notes or narratives dealing with school incidents or characters, comments on the educational and disciplinary policies in force at different periods, and extracts from diaries or letters throwing light on conditions at the time of writing. From such contributions the history will undoubtedly gain in color and picturesqueness.

Arthur S. Pier.
To the Alumni:

Will you write us, giving announcements of engagements, marriages, births of children and items for the Alumni Notes column, and also anecdotes and stories of your days in School? Send us old photographs, which we will be careful to return. These are all of interest to other alumni. The Alumni Office should always be advised of the death of an alumnus. Any suggestions as to the editorial policy will be welcome.

COMMITTEE ON PUBLICATION.

EDITORIALS

The recent action of the Standing Committee in appropriating $10,000 from the Alumni Fund of 1932 to be sent to the School marks the close of the activity of the Fund for this year. It is interesting, in retrospect, to analyze this Fund briefly—a Fund collected in a year of great depression—and to compare it with the results of the previous year.

As was to be expected, the Fund this year was smaller in amount—$12,000, as compared with $21,000 the previous year. This year 1,143 men contributed, as against 1,159 in 1931—a loss of only 16 contributors. Each of these 1,143 gifts represented an act of thoughtfulness for and devotion to St. Paul’s.

The Alumni Fund has a twofold purpose. Foremost, of course, is the annual gift to the School of a substantial sum, giving the Rector and the Trustees that leeway and ease which no budget can provide. In times past the money has been used for things tangible, which now are lasting and visible signs of alumni generosity. In the past year of financial difficulty for all, it has been used in large part in enabling the Rector and the Trustees to keep in school many boys, mostly from St. Paul’s families, who otherwise might have been forced to give up their school days at St. Paul’s. The coming year will see many more such cases, and it must be gratifying to every contributor to the Alumni Fund to feel that his generosity has enabled sons and brothers of alumni to carry on.

The other purpose of the Fund is that it ties St. Paul’s alumni together and to the School. There is no surer way to keep a man’s interest than by asking him to give where his heart lies. Nor must we forget the Alumni Horae, which is mailed free to every alumnus and every parent of a boy now in the School. The cost of the printing and mailing of the Horae is borne by the Alumni Fund; the work of compilation and editing, like all work for St. Paul’s, is a volunteer’s privilege. Like the venerable Horae Scholasticae, whose younger brother it is, the Alumni Horae has eschewed the solicitation of advertisements, and with no paid subscriptions, could not exist save for the Alumni Fund, on which, however, it is but a relatively small charge.

Our Annual Fund for 1933 will soon be organized, and in a year even more trying than that just past. With no desire to limit or hamper the Trustees, we feel sure that the response to the Fund will most readily come if it can be felt that the gift to be made next year will again be devoted largely to helping sons of alumni who otherwise might have to leave the School.
FEELING that short sketches of old St. Paul's boys who have accomplished unusual and worthwhile things will be of interest to our readers, we are initiating a series of such sketches with one in this issue. Obviously there are more men who have accomplished such things than there are pages in the ALUMNI HORAE, and the editors therefore wish to make it clear that they have no intention of establishing a Hall of Fame in which all deserving candidates will be included. The sole object in view is to provide a series of random and unofficial sketches which will be interesting reading.

THE Annual Report of the Rector has been distributed. We hope it has been read by every Alumnus, not as a matter of duty, nor even as a matter of interest; but chiefly as a source of inspiration. We promise you that you will feel better after you have read this Report.

Nor does the Financial Report of the Treasurer leave one entirely unmoved. Although we can make little claim to financial understanding or mathematical competency, we are still able to be astonished at the remarkable results achieved by the Treasurer in guarding the School's funds and the income from them, in these difficult times.

Included with these reports are the Gifts to St. Paul's School for the past year, and a list of boys who have gained honors in entering college or while in college. These also are recommended as excellent reading.

What a fine thing it is that our joy in being old St. Paul's boys has so much honest food on which to thrive.

If you have lost your copy of this report before reading it, you can obtain another by writing to the School.

FROM THE SHELDON LIBRARY

I HAVE always felt that it is the Library's responsibility to keep a file of the Memorabilia of the Alumni. I have had this end in view for years and had, as I supposed, a complete file of the VI Form Annuals, since 1917 (the initial year of their issuance). But I find that unless such material is kept under lock and key, the lure of the past is too much for the present generations of school-boys. Result—all but two of these Annuals have disappeared. I have succeeded in replacing some of the missing numbers from the Evans Printing Co., in town. But the years 1919, 1921, 1922, 1924, 1925, 1926, 1927,—total of 7 are still wanted. The Rector desires 1925, only for the Rectory set.

I would suggest that if readers of the ALUMNI HORAE can supply any of the required copies, either for the Rector or the Library, that they be sent to the Sheldon Library, St. Paul's School.

Sincerely yours,

EDWARD G. KENDALL.
TRUSTEES’ MEETING—AN ADVENTURE
By John C. Jay

To sit with authority at a Trustees’ Meeting; to attend a Masters’ Meeting at the School at which you were once a First Former; to be a house guest at the Rectory—these things would constitute a thrill and adventure for any St. Paul’s boy.

What do Trustees do? What are Masters’ Meetings like? What makes the wheels go round? Not a boy but has wondered. Let me tell you.

As your President, I am ex-officio welcomed to the Board of Trustees and become a legal member of the Corporation, serving until my successor is elected by the Alumni. Trustees’ Meetings start promptly at nine o’clock on Saturday morning in the big study in the Rectory. Industry and decorum are assumed: punctuality is enforced. A fire blazes; easy chairs are pulled up; cigars and pipes help deliberative thought. A short prayer by the Bishop opens the meeting. The Clerk of the Corporation—note the New England tang of that designation—records the attendance. In front of him is a little table on which are his records and minutes. We sit in no regular order, but the President of the Board has by him a small tabouret to hold the copious agenda.

First comes the Rector’s report, a copy in the hands of each Trustee. It is read by the Rector aloud, and slowly, in order that we may make marginal notes. I listen quite spellbound. How does the man do it, year after year—restless in mind, ever new, never satisfied, ever stimulating! It is for us, as it will be for you when you receive your copy, what Bishop Dallas calls e-ducation, that is, going to the very root of the word, a leading out. We are challenged to try new paths; we are dared to experiment.

The report finished, suggestions arise—here a change in emphasis, there a questioning as to whether some statement is absolutely accurate. The group does not hesitate to criticize. It has background in this particular subject—the School. Suggestions provoke debate, and all of this is welcomed by a mind never closed to betterments. The report, as amended, is ordered printed and mailed. Read it, all of you; you will not be able to put it down until finished.

Next comes the Budget. No business corporation could plan more intelligently or carefully than this. Thorough estimates precede every act; the coming year is planned in the light of past history, and the result checked. The accomplishments of the last year show this. We kept within the budget. Good housekeeping this—no item too small but that it has received study.

From the budget to the bigger matters of finance. Here is where this group must major, and particularly in these times of financial uncertainty. For full two weeks before the meeting, each Trustee has had in his hands a ninety-page, closely typewritten report, prepared by our independent auditors and supplemented by later and fresher figures. With these as a background, the Treasurer tells us our financial condition and what his plans are for the present and future. The financial condition is sound. Complex as are the figures of any educational institution such as ours, with multiplicity of trust funds embodying varying conditions, these difficulties vanish under the crystal clear exposition of our Treasurer. There can be romance in figures — and tragedy too. That we have escaped the latter is in large measure due to our Treasurer, who like a skillful raftsman has guided us down the rapids.

School enrolment is discussed. The School is full. There are discussions as to ideal ratios between Masters and boys; waiting list and entrance examinations are reviewed; that ever-present hair shirt, the Priority List, even comes in for attention. Most important of all, health questions are carefully considered, the judgments and recommendations of the School authorities being warmly backed by our two Trustee doctors. Are our charges for medical services to the boys fair and just? They are. And this is not the result of snap judgment but of considered opinion.

Grounds and Buildings Committee reports, and we indulge in flights of fancy, for in these material things we wish we could wave a wand. Perhaps it is better as it is. Evolution is better than revolution. But one thing worries us all, and worries the Rector and Masters even more seriously — it is our auditorium, utterly inadequate structurally for the demands put upon it, and with ever-present hazards, which only the most strenuous and constant vigilance minimizes. The Rector tells us of a new swimming pool. For years it has lain fallow at our hand. It is the old reservoir which once supplied the School with water, and which with some reconstruction will give us this sorely needed adjunct. It seems so simple, it is strange we have never thought of it before. Columbus and the egg again.

We are asked to cede our remote possible interest in the Stark Cemetery to the New Hampshire Historical Society. Thus the guns of the Battle of Bennington echo to yet another generation.

Our officers are re-elected; committees appointed; various resolutions required by the laws of different States are passed and recorded. Feelingly, the Rector tells us of the death of Mr. Ingersoll — alumnus, Trustee, friend.

By now it is past noon, and we scatter for luncheon at Hargate and the Upper, to meet again after the Isthmian-Delphian football game in the afternoon.

To see the Lower Grounds in action in the Fall; to see our peculiarly own inter-club system functioning; to see a perfectly planned triple pass executed with the precision of a machine — these things set blood coursing and are a fit preparation for the afternoon session.

Here the discussion becomes more general; routine is behind us. There is intimate weighing of School problems, give and take of ideas, full voicing of any criticisms heard, founded or ill-founded, no restraint, no feeling that anything said will be misunderstood or misinterpreted. It is a frank group with single purpose.

We adjourn barely in time for the evening meal, after which comes a joint meeting of the Masters and the Trustees, the Trustees this time sitting silent while the Masters carry on their meeting as if we were not present. Again the Rector's study at the Rectory embraces the group. It is a happy and homelike setting for a family discussion. Once more the impression is one of men united in a common enterprise and giving serious consideration to their work. Each man has in his hands a list of the entire School; the format is exactly the same as it was in my day when we used to be able to buy these lists from Mr. Flint for five cents apiece. The Rector reads over the names, starting with the First Form, A to F, F to L, L to S, S to Z. Let no parent or alumnus think that at this School his boy is a mere number. If little Pitcher had big ears he would be astonished to know how his efforts to improve are instantly known and noted. Is a new boy homesick? Trained sympathy enfolds him.

The Committee on Discipline reports. This is where, as old boys, we sit up in our chairs, for the memories of the sheets we scribbled arise vividly to our minds. But strangely enough, there is a doctrine that seems new to those of us who learned our Virgil only by the painful process of transcription. We are told that whenever disciplinary action is necessary, the Committee feels it has then and there failed in its purpose. Just as in medicine the modern emphasis is on prevention and not on cure, so in schoolmastering the emphasis today is not on punishment but on leadership to better endeavor.

Fire drill and fire risks are discussed. We feel the sad loss of Mr. Trask, whose ever-present vigilance was our greatest safeguard, but we must carry on.

The President of the Board of Trustees is asked to speak. In simple phrase and conversational tone, he explains the relations that should exist between Trustees and Masters. Arthur Pier entertains us hugely with anecdotes of early days gleaned from the Rural Record, and the early files of the Horae.

A young Master reports on the recent conference of teachers held at Atlantic City, dealing with religion in education. Another Master gives an interesting talk, in English that is good to hear, of his experiences as a student at the University of Munich last Summer. Bishop Dallas gives a brief talk, mingling wit and whimsy and concluding with a depth of feeling that leaves us silent. Who would not heed the quaint admonishment of the Prayer Book and follow such a Bishop "with a glad mind and will?"

The meeting over, we break up into groups. There is none of the stiffness that we all, I think, more or less dreaded. The groups form themselves quite naturally — one is extolling the merits of Rugby at the Lower School; another is talking over the plans for Anniversary, which the Trustees this year decided to hold on Saturday and Sunday, with boat races Friday afternoon, thereby shifting the event to the end of the week and making it easier for alumni and parents to come to the School. Politics and the election furnish easy common ground.

Gradually the gathering breaks up; those of us who are staying at the Rectory sit up before the fire until a late hour, discussing the topic of never-failing interest — the School. It is perhaps from these informal discussions that the wisest decisions will ultimately result.
Sunday breakfast at the Rectory is an event. Fish cakes, poached eggs, and sausages, to say nothing of coffee, fruit, and cereal, will keep any Trustee from having to join the milk squad, even though the posture class may be augmented.

The morning service in the chapel includes the School Anthem, the solo of which is sung by a voice of singular freshness, and a brief but stimulating sermon by the Bishop.

Lunch, then leisure for wandering. The Grounds Committee goes about its work; your President sits down with Abbot Treadwell to discuss alumni plans and needs, and discusses the coming hockey game with Mr. Fisher; plans for the Church Service in the Spring are further crystallized by a talk with the Rector. Goodbyes are said to some Trustees who leave for Boston by earlier trains or who are motoring home. Once again “the shadows lengthen, the evening comes, and the busy world is hushed.”

Evensong in the chapel, with only Jack Goetchius and myself left hidden in the shadows of the choir stalls where the Trustees are placed. The Long Meter beat of a hymn tune familiar to the boys surges and ebbs; we repeat a psalm in antiphonal cadence; a youthful looking Sixth Former reads the lesson in manly voice. Far off from where we sit, the Rector asks for prayers for those at home and for the alumni. The Stainer “Amen” fades into the vaulting; the boys troop out. I turn homeward.

It has been a satisfying experience. To an old boy, St. Paul’s, after all, is sui generis —

“For one day in thy courts is better than a thousand.”

LETTER FROM THE RECTOR

My Dear John: November 30, 1932.

This morning the School has cause to rejoice in the affectionate message from its Alumni and the very substantial gift accompanying it.

We realize that such a gift at this time represents real sacrifice on the part of many an old boy of St. Paul’s. There is no doubt that the use of the gift will be made with corresponding care.

I am venturing to place on the bulletin board in the Big Study your letter to me and the resolution of the Standing Committee so that every hurrying boy, stopping to see these communications, may realize afresh what affectionate backing the Alumni give to the School.

The Treasurer’s cheque for $10,000 will pass through our books, a record will be made on the Gift Account, and the School’s cheque for a similar amount will be sent to Mr. Dickey, awaiting the vote of the Board. That has been the procedure in the past.

Believe me, Faithfully and gratefully yours, Samuel S. Drury.

THE GORDON MEDAL
For the Best All-Round Athlete and Sportsman

MALCOLM KENNETH GORDON, '87

Having been asked to write something about this medal, which now for forty years has been awarded at the Anniversary Games, I feel that a few words explaining the reasons which led me to found such a prize may be interesting to the present readers of the ALUMNI HORAE.

In 1890, athletics were confined to a few of the Eastern colleges and schools, chiefly Yale, Harvard and Princeton, with Cornell and Columbia well up in rowing. Such terms as stadium, pentathlon and decathlon were almost unknown to the general public and the Olympic Games were read of only in ancient history. Among the preparatory schools, St. Paul's, perhaps, had had the most complete and most diversified system of athletics, and certainly the oldest. The Isthmian and Old Hundred Clubs founded in 1859 are among the oldest athletic organizations in the country. We had had rowing since the early sixties.

In those days our athletics were more general, not so specialized as at present. Coaching, as we know the term today, was not known. Occasionally a former oarsman helped a college crew for the love of it, although in football Walter Camp at Yale had begun a system which later was to spread to every football field in the country.

Boys at St. Paul's trained themselves for the track, with a suggestion now and then from Mr. Dole, who, of course, trained all the crews. During my whole career as a boy at St. Paul's we had no coaches for football. We did, however, keep in close touch with our old boys in college and our standard of football was not far below that of the colleges where the transition from English Rugby to the American game was then being worked out. Rules were not well defined and few colleges knew much more than we did about the game. When I had gone through the Upper Sixth, during which year we reorganized the Clubs and formed the Delphian, I came back as a "Master." Having been captain of the Isthmians the year before, I naturally became "coach" during the fall of 1890. Mr. Brinley had returned as a Master from Trinity College, where he had made a great reputation as a quarter-back, and became the coach of the Delphians, and Mr. Bacon of Harvard and Mr. Conover coached the Old Hundreds. Thus began our system of "coaches."
I had always been fond of every sort of sport though I did not excel greatly in any one department. I did about everything in the gymnasium but I enjoyed most the team games and rowing. This being my idea of sport, I began to encourage boys to go in for everything, and it occurred to me that some sort of recognition was needed in order to carry out my broad view of athletics. Remember, the strenuous training of today was not then in vogue.

It was with these ideas that I designed the medal. I worked out the details while keeping study and, after embodying as many athletic emblems as I could, I sent the drawing to New York and the result was this rather homely bronze medal. Little did I imagine that within a few years it would stand for so much.

Last June, at Dr. Drury's thoughtful suggestion, I had the honor of awarding the medal at its fortieth anniversary. This is the only athletic prize that I know of which carries with it nothing tangible for the recipient to take with him. That in itself makes it unique and to my mind makes it of real value. I should not now want any cup or individual prize to be given with the medal, although it had been my plan to have a smaller medal accompany the award and I have the design for such a medal in my possession.

For those who wish a full history of the medal with an account of each athlete who received it during its first twenty-five years, I refer them to the Horae Scholasticae, Vol. XLIX, page 223 (June 8th, 1916). The medal itself is described in Vol. XXV, page 228 (May 31st, 1892), where the original conditions are also set forth.

I should say that the highest ideals of sport, as we of St. Paul's regard sport, have always governed the award. The result of this as a factor in character building was brought out during the war. Of the twenty-three men then eligible for service, all were in the war. Several distinguished themselves and six made the supreme sacrifice.

With the modern tendency to specialize, we sometimes develop a truly wonderful player in one or two sports but I do not feel that we have as many boys that could qualify under the rules I laid down in 1892, five sports then being required to qualify for the medal. But athletes now are more proficient in their own lines. Training is far more carefully looked after and physical apparatus far more perfect.

With such men whose names are engraved on the medal, and with their ideals of sport for sport’s sake, we have nothing to fear so far as the influence of St. Paul’s goes. They will never allow play to become work and in the fight against commercialism the present generation may be called upon to act; if so, St. Paul’s must lead.

ST. PAUL’S SCHOOL CLUB MEETINGS
AT HARVARD, PRINCETON AND YALE

The annual meeting of the St. Paul’s School Club of Harvard will be held before the close of college for the Christmas holidays. The exact date of the meeting was not available at the time of going to press. Arrangements for the meeting are in charge of Richard S. Neff, ’28, secretary.

An enjoyable gathering of St. Paul’s men at Princeton was held on Saturday, November the 26th, when Dr. Drury and eight or nine alumni met at luncheon. The meeting was, in the Rector’s own words, “merely a gathering of a few simple-minded friends” and he said he did not consider it an official visit at all. The regular annual meeting of the St. Paul’s School Club of Princeton will be held at a later date.
The annual fall dinner of the St. Paul’s School Club of Yale was held in the University Club on the evening of Friday, the twenty-eighth of October. The Rev. Henry Martin Davidson journeyed down from School to speak at the dinner in place of Dr. Drury who was unable to come. The presence of Dr. Davidson was more than welcome, not only for his information concerning the School but also for the spontaneity which he contributed to the whole occasion. Before his address there were several matters of business to be cleared up, such as the question of the assessment of dues and the election of officers for the next year. Edward Ensign Mills, ’30, was elected President of the Association to succeed Hart Lyman Stebbins, ’29, and Thomas Rodd, 3rd, ’31, was elected Secretary in place of Mr. Mills. The most enjoyable part of the evening, not only in anticipation but also in realization, was of course that contributed by Dr. Davidson who spoke both of the activities of the School and of the feelings regarding the steady intellectual improvement there, an improvement more noticeable this year than ever before. At the conclusion of the dinner, Dr. Davidson was dragged by members of the Association back to their rooms to continue, perforce, to talk until late.

THE GOVERNOR OF NEW HAMPSHIRE

The only man New Hampshire had ever elected twice to be its Governor, has now been chosen for a third term. In an election when the veteran Moses lost his seat and the Republican candidate for President won by only a one percent plurality, John Gilbert Winant defeated Brown the Democrat by six to five. Shy, serious, deliberate and independent, the lanky sponsor of the New Hampshire Plan suddenly finds himself face to face with a comparison, and not an unreasonable one, with Abraham Lincoln. St. Paul’s and New Hampshire have known him man and boy since the age of fourteen. For though born in New York, he took as naturally to New England as did Kentucky’s rail splitter to the Free Slave North. All through his school days, young Winant loved to gaze at the Bow Hills from a spot on the “Millville” Road where he was destined to buy his first property, the rambling home that has become the White House of New Hampshire.

John Gilbert Winant, ’08
He left St. Paul's for Princeton, to study government, but returned to Concord shortly after as a teacher of American history. When the war came, it was something of a surprise to find the calmest and most deliberate of masters impulsively enlisting as a private in the Air Corps. Promoted to command the Eighth Observation Squadron on the French front, Captain Winant, discharged in 1919, backed an A.E.F. buddy with some success in Texas oil fields where he adventured around a bit, married Constance Rivington Russell by whom he has three children, and then returned to his history classes at St. Paul's and a political career. One pre-war term in the State Legislature was followed up by election to the Senate and close association with a group of young progressives who finally induced him to make a losing run for the governorship. There was little thought of his even winning the Republican nomination from publisher Knox of Manchester, who printed his rival’s intentions in four lines on an inside page. Gradually, however, the personal platform of a young reforming schoolmaster won out over the machine and, with the election, he found himself at the head of the Granite State. Princeton, Dartmouth and the State University conferred honorary degrees, but the Governor, who is elected for only one year, was busy studying the problems of an industrially and agriculturally embarrassed community. During his second term, which began in 1931, the young Governor worked out the New Hampshire Plan for putting three million of the idle to work. President Hoover and the governors of the New England states have all listened approvingly to this program for job security by job sharing. Its basis is the flexible work-day and work-week. Technically, it has been proved practical in any number of diverse enterprises. Morally, its effect would guarantee security to millions of discarded workers and compensatory leisure to those on decreased time.

MINUTES OF MEETING OF STANDING COMMITTEE

The Organization Meeting of the Standing Committee of the Alumni Association of St. Paul’s School was held on November the 14th, 1932 at the Union Club, New York. The meeting was preceded by a dinner.

The following were present:

John C. Jay, ’97, President
Owen Wister, ’77, First Vice President
J. Frederic Byers, ’00, Third Vice President
William Hale Harkness, ’18, Treasurer
John Watts, ’24, Asst. Treasurer

Abbot Treadwell, ’81, Secretary and Clerk
John B. Edmonds, ’19, Asst. Secretary and Clerk
Clarence E. West, ’97, Executive Secretary
W. Strother Jones, ’77, Former President
Charles D. Hart, ’88, Former President
William Fellowes Morgan, Jr., '06, was present by invitation.

The meeting was called to order by John C. Jay, '97, President of the Alumni Association, who read a telegram of greeting from Dr. Drury, in reply to which the President was requested to send an appropriate message of appreciation.

William Fellowes Morgan, Sr., '76, was elected Chairman of the Standing Committee for the ensuing year, and Clarence E. West, '97, was elected Secretary of the Standing Committee.

William Hale Harkness, '18, Treasurer of the Alumni Association, reported as follows:

REPORT OF THE ALUMNI FUND COMMITTEE FOR 1932

(as of November 14th, 1932)

There is submitted herewith statement setting forth the results of the Alumni Fund Campaign for 1932. This shows that 1143 Alumni have given $12,544.11 and 24 Alumni have given $562.00 in the Twenty-fifth Anniversary Form of 1907. While the total received compares unfavorably with the 1931 Fund, which, including their Twenty-fifth Anniversary donation, amounted to $22,659.48, given by 1188 contributors, yet there are only twenty-one less contributors this year than last year. The percentage list shows that 31.22 percent of the Alumni contributed to the fund this year and 32.23 percent contributed last year. There were 799 repeaters from 1931 and 239 who had contributed previous to 1931. We received donations from 105 new subscribers, 49 of whom were members of the class of 1931. Of the 1188 who gave last year, 14 have died and 378 did not make any gifts this year.

Considering the conditions under which the 1932 Fund was raised and the instructions given to the Form Agents not to press their classmates for donations, the results forcibly demonstrate the interest of the Alumni in the School and their belief in the importance of the Alumni Fund.

The loyal support of the Form Agents is deeply appreciated by the Alumni Fund Committee.

The report was accepted and ordered filed. The Chairman expressed to the Chairman and members of the Alumni Fund Committee and to the Form Agents, the appreciation of the Alumni Association for their excellent work in connection with the Alumni Fund of 1932.

Carll Tucker, '00, Chairman of the Alumni Fund Committee and member of the Executive Committee, reported that the Executive Committee, in session earlier in the evening, recommended that a gift be made to the School in the amount of Ten thousand dollars ($10,000) from the funds of the Alumni Association, which amount would constitute approximately the entire amount of the Alumni Fund. raised for 1932, less the approximate cost of the ALUMNI HORAE of $2000 for the past year and $500 to be expended on the History of St. Paul's School. He further suggested that no recommendation be made by the Standing Committee to the Board of Trustees in regard to the disposition of the gift. John C. Jay, '97, Chairman of the Executive Committee, also expressed his approval of this recommendation. The resolution was unanimously adopted.

The president reported that arrangements had been completed for a Hockey Game between the School Team and the Princeton Freshman Team to be held at Madison Square Garden on December 22nd, 1932, and that William Fellowes Morgan, Jr., '06, had been appointed Chairman of the Committee to arrange for and conduct this game.

The president announced that arrangements had been completed to hold the Annual Church Service in New York at St. James's Church on March 26th, 1933, that Dr. Drury would preach, and that Henry McC. Bangs, '02, had been appointed Chairman of the Committee to arrange for this service.

The chairman asked for a discussion of the question of the advisability of publishing the ALUMNI HORAE as usual during the ensuing year. The president stated that in his opinion the ALUMNI HORAE was most valuable in keeping the Alumni in touch with, and interested in, the School and spoke most appreciatively of the excellent work which Eugene V. Connett, 3rd, '08, and the other members of the Editorial Board had done during the past year in making the ALUMNI HORAE so uniformly excellent and interesting. Charles D. Hart, '81, spoke in further approval of the ALUMNI HORAE and offered the following resolution which was unanimously adopted:

RESOLVED, That the Alumni Association of St. Paul's School continue its regular publication of the ALUMNI HORAE.

Abbot Treadwell, '81, reported that the Committee on Nominations had nominated the following to serve on the Executive Committee for the ensuing year:

John C. Jay, '97, Chairman
Henry McC. Bangs, '02
George S. Brewster, '86
Eugene V. Connett, 3rd, '08
William Hale Harkness, '18
Samuel W. Morris, '90
Stuart D. Preston, '02
Alvin F. Sortwell, '10
Carll Tucker, '00
Clarence E. West, '97, Secretary

The foregoing were unanimously elected members of the Executive Committee to serve for the ensuing year.

The Chairman then called upon Owen Wister, '77, to present a memorial on the death of Charles Edward Ingersoll, '77, which he had prepared, during the reading of which everyone present stood. The memorial read as follows:

On June fifth of this year, the School lost in Charles Edward Ingersoll a
A staunch friend, who, in his own community, was also an outstanding and valuable citizen. June the seventeenth would have been his seventy-third birthday. He entered the School in September, 1874, the University of Pennsylvania in 1878; and after his graduation in 1882, studied law in the office of Francis Rawle.

A short time after his admission to the bar, under the ancient rule of court which appoints free counsel for a certain class of destitute offenders, it fell to Ingersoll’s lot to have as his first conspicuous client a penniless murderer. There are still some who can remember the desperate and dogged energy with which the youthful attorney threw himself into the preparation for this trial. The weeks of effort spent his strength, and a serious attack of typhoid fever followed. After his recovery, he went from the office where he had been a student to that of Francis Gowen. In 1889 he became a member of the firm of Gowen, Hood and Ingersoll.

To enumerate the succession of responsibilities which Charles Ingersoll assumed as year followed year, as a director of the Pennsylvania Railroad, for example, as a manager of the Girard Trust Company, as warden of the church in his country neighborhood — some dozen in all — would bear witness to the character of the man; it is as a friend of the School that we speak of him.

He was the second of his family to come to St. Paul’s. An elder brother, Warren, preceded him, four sons and two grandsons have followed him: the Ingersolls are a clan in our Highlands. Thirty-one years after he left the School, he returned as a Trustee, succeeding Charles Gardiner in 1909. He served nearly twenty years, constant in his duty, taking the long journey from Philadelphia to Concord in many inclement seasons, president of the board for a while, sagacious and cautious adviser at all times. He assumed this responsibility in a period of declining fortune at the School; he was with it through dark years; when he resigned, the School had come out of the clouds into bright day. Those who remember him as a boy in the fourth form can recall his charm of manner. At his graduation from college, because of this charm and his character, the crown of popularity was awarded him — the wooden spoon. Throughout his life all people spoke of him as Charlie, rather than Charles.

This memorial tribute to Mr. Ingersoll was adopted by a rising vote and the secretary was instructed to send a copy of it to the members of Mr. Ingersoll’s family.

The president of the Alumni Association then resumed the chair, and appointed an Alumni Fund Committee to serve for the ensuing year consisting of the following:

Carll Tucker, ’00, Chairman
George S. Brewster, ’36
Harry Parsons Cross, ’92
Robert H. Cox, ’01

Albert L. Smith, ’08
John H. Stewart, ’10
William Hale Harkness, ’18
Reeve Schley, Jr., ’27

The president also appointed an Alumni Horae Committee to serve for the ensuing year consisting of the following:
The president appointed an Anniversary Committee for 1933 consisting of the following:

Edward D. Toland, '04, Chairman
Jeremiah S. Black, '22
Howell P. Campbell, '07
Henry B. Cannon, Jr., '24
John B. Edmonds, '19
Langdon Lea, Jr., '28
Willard Scudder, '85
Abbot Treadwell, '81
L. Caspar Wister, '28
Craig Wylie, '26

The president then appointed a Board of Editors for the History of St Paul's School consisting of the following:

Arthur S. Pier, '90, Editor
Owen Wister, '77, Advisory Editor
Abbot Treadwell, '81
Willard Scudder, '85
Robert Creswell, '15
William Hale Harkness, '18

The president appointed Willard Scudder, '85, as Chairman of a Committee on Honorary Members, with power to select the other members of his Committee.

The president announced that it had been the custom of the Association to publish an Alumni Directory about every five years, that he had conferred with the Rector and with the members of the Executive Committee on the advisability of publishing one in 1933 and that it was the general opinion that it should be published. He stated that the Executive Committee had appointed a Committee consisting of himself, Abbot Treadwell, '81, and Clarence E. West, '97, to investigate and report upon the question and that the Executive Committee could then decide whether publication should be undertaken. This action of the Executive Committee was approved.

In concluding the meeting, the president called upon Frederick B. Adams, '96, Reeve Schley, '99, Willard Scudder, '85, Malcolm K. Gordon, '87, Charles D. Hart, '88, and W. Strother Jones, '77, for remarks, all of whom responded in a most happy and interesting manner.
