ST. PAUL'S DRAMATICS FORTY YEARS AGO
Thanksgiving Play — 1884
"Our Mutual Friend"
A Dramatization of the Novel by Dickens
On Thursday, May 31st, the clans began to assemble and by Friday morning, June 1st, large numbers of Alumni were on hand.

The first event of the official program was the track meet on Friday afternoon. This was characterized by several very good performances. It was won by the Old Hundreds with 76 points. The Delphians were second with 63 1/2 and the Isthmians third with 42 1/2 points. The Alumni Dash was won by Andrew Serge Gargarin, '33.

After a few introductory remarks by John H. Stewart, '10, some of the athletic prizes of the year were given out to the boys.

On Saturday, June 2nd, the morning was spent by the Alumni in wandering around and in pleasant, casual meetings and conversations with old friends. At noon there was a meeting of the Alumni Association at the "Community House" followed by a luncheon. After this, the Alumni, headed by a band, marched down to the "Big Study" and there gave the crews a "send-off" as they left for Long Pond.

When the crews had left, the Alumni broke up into individual parties and also headed for Long Pond. The races started in due time and were interesting throughout, though with somewhat too much reddish tinge for the entire pleasure of some. The Halcyon crews made an almost clean sweep, winning all except the Third and Fifth Crew races. This was a complete reversal of the boat races a year ago when the Shattuck crews won seven of the ten races and another was a dead heat. The races were preceded by the always impressive and thrilling flotilla parade with fourteen crews lined up and six others waiting in the boat-houses because some of the boats had to be used twice.

At the conclusion of the races, all made haste towards the "Flag Pole." The ceremonies there were all but completed when a terrific thunderstorm and downpour arrived, necessitating a hurried retreat to "Hargate." Here, after an address by John C. Jay, '97, retiring President of the Alumni Association, the remaining athletic prizes were bestowed.

Several class suppers were held Saturday evening. 1909, the Twenty-fifth Anniversary Class, had their supper and meeting at the home of Archer Harman, their representative on the School faculty. Those returning this year from the form of 1909 were: Derrick, Godfrey, Hance, Harman, Kingsland, Lawson, Page, Pratt, R. Rauch, Read, Wall, Whiting and Woodruff.
The School Dance was held Saturday night which many of the Alumni attended either to try their fling at the light fantastic or to compare the present Sixth Form's choice of feminine beauty with what they could remember of their own.

The Anniversary Chapel Service was held Sunday morning. This was followed by a luncheon at the New Upper.

This year the Anniversary Luncheon was held on Sunday, June 3rd, so as not to conflict with the rowing events of Saturday. The Upper School dining-hall was very beautiful indeed, decked out with peonies and peppermints in the School colors. After an enjoyable luncheon, the Rector made a short address in which he again welcomed all guests and announced several important donations made to the School during the past year, as follows:

The Frederic C. Shattuck Scholarship, founded by his children: Mrs. Henry Bigelow, Dr. Edward L. Richardson (on behalf of his wife, Dr. Shattuck’s deceased daughter), Dr. George C. Shattuck, and the Hon. Henry Lee Shattuck, all of Boston.

The William H. Donner, Jr. Scholarship, founded by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Donner, of Philadelphia, in memory of their son, a St. Paul’s boy who died while enrolled as a student at Princeton.

The anonymous gift of a sum of money to build a wall around and to beautify the garden next the Rectory.

The anonymous gift of a Trustee, to provide adequate and up-to-date moving picture machines for use in the remodelled Assembly Hall.

Dr. Drury then broke time-old tradition by allowing visitors to smoke in that hallowed sanctuary of abstinence. While cigars were being passed around, Reeve Schley, ’99, President of the Corporation of the School, brought the Anniversary exercises to an unexpected and fitting close with the following remarks:

“No matter how sincerely one may believe it, it would certainly be poor taste and probably presumptuous to assert that St. Paul’s is the best school in this Country. There are so many elements which go to make a great school—its physical plant, grounds and buildings; the character of the leadership of its Headmaster; the personnel of its students; and the quality and skill of its instructors. It must be a place where at least a sufficient amount of learning is acquired to enable a boy to enter college; it must be a place where character is molded; and it should..." be a place, as we of St. Paul's believe, where an opportunity is afforded to our youth to study those principles of divine wisdom laid down by that greatest of all teachers some 1900 years ago.

"Perhaps we would be standing on safer ground if we should say that there is no better school than St. Paul's in this country. One of the principal reasons for making this statement with entire confidence, is the basis of relationship which has existed here for many years between the Masters and the boys, that companionship of which Dr. Drury spoke so beautifully this morning and which for so many of us has meant lifelong friendships.

"This relationship is one which calls for great unselfishness on the part of the Master. A Master, to be a successful Master here, must be unselfish to a degree. No matter what his personal ambition may be, unlike the instructor in the college world, he must abandon the thought of becoming an outstanding scholar, to the extent at least of making an individual record for himself in research or other fields. There is neither the time here nor the facilities for any such career. He must give of himself rather than of his discoveries, and is rewarded only by the satisfaction which comes from an unselfish effort to help others.

"The Trustees believe that, as compared with other schools and in a worldly sense, our Masters are well rewarded here, but they have long desired in some manner to express their gratitude to those Masters, through an impulse which comes from the heart and not the head. The Board, therefore — and I would remind you that Dr. Drury himself is a member of the Board — concluded that an appropriate time for carrying out this impulse would be the twenty-fifth anniversary of a Master's service at the School. At this time there are fifteen Masters who have served twenty-five years or more. Accordingly, a medal of silver, which can be used as a paper weight, has been designed with the Master's name on the back, together with his dates of service. In addition to this medal there will be found in the box in which it is contained, a more substantial token, which we hope will be so used by the recipient that it will ever recall pleasant memories of this occasion.

"On behalf of the Board of Trustees, I am going to present the box and its contents to each one of the Masters whose name I shall read."

Thereupon Mr. Schley announced the names of the Masters who had served for twenty-five years or more in the reverse order of their service, namely:

Charles Cockburn Monie, 25 years; Clarence Earle Rexford, 25 years; Howell Patterson Campbell, 27 years; John Jared Welsh, 27 years; Joseph Timothy Walker, 27 years; Emerson Augustus Kimball, 28 years; Abbot Treadwell, 32 years; Robert Earle Peck, 35 years.

After Mr. Peck's name had been reached, Mr. Schley paused for a moment and said: "I have now reached a point in this ceremony which gives me great satisfaction and presents an opportunity which I have been looking forward to for many years. The Masters whose names I shall read from now on, were Masters at the School when I was here. Many is the time that they have called me to my feet to my own embarrassment, and it is now my turn to reverse this process, to call them to their feet and tell them what I think of them.

“Gilbert Henry Courtenay Hawtrey — Thirty-six years’ service: Modest representative of English culture, who next year retires under our Masters’ Retirement Plan to return to his own beautiful country. We wish him happiness.

“Henry Metcalf Fiske — Thirty-seven years’ service: Undismayed leader of that department endeavoring to teach those who murder the King’s English, the culture of the French.

“Theophilus Nelson — Thirty-eight years’ service: Austere and skillful pilot midst the maelstrom of mathematics.

“Frederick Edmund Sears — Thirty-nine years’ service: Farnsworth Master in Science — an outstanding scholar.

“Judson Balis Howard — Forty years’ service: Cochran Master in Greek — Comfortable custodian of Hargate, whose skill in teaching has kept alive in this School what is commonly described as a dead language.

“Willard Scudder — Song bird extraordinary as poet or in the choir. Ex-

EXCERPTS FROM DR. DRURY’S ANNIVERSARY ADDRESS

Our School anthem dwells on the words Brethren and Companions. For the sake of our Brethren and Companions, we find ourselves constantly at work, and at prayer, in the Christian enterprise known as St. Paul’s School. These words sum up much that is distinctive in the life of St. Paul’s, which is justly noted for its brotherhood, and its companionship.

St. Paul reminds us that we should avoid the entanglements of local pride. It is a small thing, he declares, to boast of being of Paul or of Apollos, when the aim of life is to be of Christ! Yet even St. Paul would, we hope, permit our sense of satisfaction in the friendliness of this School which bears his name. And this is specially permissible when the words convey not only pleasantness, but power.

Our Saviour used brotherhood and companionship as the scene of his saving work. On friendship he based his Church. Out of companionship grew his leadership. Two significant statements from him lie close together in the gospel record. “I have called you friends,” and “Ye call me Master and Lord, and ye say well, for so I am.” Our Saviour indicates that there can be no influence apart from a willing discipleship, which springs from trust and admiration. He dared to commit into the weak hands of men the mighty work of furthering his message. Without penning a line, he trusted his gospel to the vehicle of friendship. Christ used brotherhood and companionship as the medium for our progress in reality and for our peace.

What we call Christian education is enlightenment transmitted by persons. The torch of Truth is passed from hand to hand. To books we go for facts; but from men and women we find both the impetus to seek the facts, and the power wherewith to interpret them. A school is therefore bound to be a personal place. This is God’s way. We may well rejoice in the fact that He commits His Truth to us as brethren and companions, bidding us to share, heart to heart, one with another.

To make this plain, consider a story which takes us back half a century, yet links us with this sense of truth via personality that marks our School. Last year in Rome, as friends and I approached the so-called Protestant Cemetery to visit the grave of Keats, there suddenly came the recollection that Augustus Swift was buried there. To St. Paul’s people Augustus Muhlenburg Swift, that gallant young master who died so early and so suddenly in Rome, would mean far more than the poet Keats! As we laboriously traced out the grave, close by mid flowering camellias and fragrant violets Russian priests were singing a requiem. Sweet incense mingled with the flowers of spring. At length, our search was ended. Forty-nine years before, to that very day, Augustus Swift had died in Rome. An old boy of St. Paul's, he had just completed 10 years of vital mastership, and was spending his honeymoon abroad. Next day, I met the Rev. Dr. William Adams Brown, one of our most learned and distinguished graduates. "What do you suppose," I said, "we have visited the grave of Augustus Swift, and found it on the very anniversary of his death." Dr. Brown's eyes gleamed. "Mr. Swift!" he said, "Why Mr. Swift was the first man that ever interested me in great literature." Here is a case of the companionship of an older man lighting with enthusiasm the mind of a little boy. He who has become a leader in his church and a molder of American thought, traced his first delight in books to Augustus Swift. Thus education flows from mind to mind, from man to man. Truth is content to win its way in brotherhood and companionship.

In a school, these intricate and intimate dramas of influence are constantly enacted. Power resides in personality. The brotherhood of boys is enlightened by the companionship of men. Consider certain instances of what transpires at St. Paul's School many times a year.

Here is a boy troubled by religious doubt. His early faith is failing him. He cannot recognize this re-adjustment as wholesome growing pains of the mind, but rather feels that the bottom of reality is dropping out. He seeks some kind friend among the masters. He confides in him. The older friend neither ridicules nor rebukes, but rather sympathizes. The boy discovers that doubt is not sin. He learns to be patient with his own perplexities, and to simplify his creed.

Another boy is timid. This is not cowardice, though he fears that it may be. It is inexperience, and youthful inability to meet a physical test. Some big man, wearing a jersey with a college letter, patiently explains how the game is to be played, how the trial can be met. Companionship issues in ability. Boldness is the fruit of knowing how.

Yet others frankly say, "I can't understand poetry." "I don't see what all this talk about Nature means." Companionship opens the doors of understanding. An evening in a master's study, or a walk about the pond with some nature-loving friend, reveal the wholesome vitality which books provide, and the never failing refreshment of the out-of-doors. Or a will-to-help is generated in the brotherhood by the high companionship of men who regard a school as, indeed, a nursery of heroes. To leave this good world better than we found it is the unspoken, but clearly held, motto of many teachers. The boy in his teens learns from the master of larger experience a willingness to serve, and a consuming impatience with things as they are.

These instances of influence have aroused in you who hear them many grateful memories of former masters to whom you owe much. You will each remind yourselves of those dear departed companions who enriched the brotherhood during your time at School. Taste forbids us to speak of the living, but grateful hearts recall the strong companionship of the masters who have benefited the brotherhood. Truth goes forward from heart to heart, from hand to hand. It is God's plan. It was Christ's method. May this School of ours ever be the shrine and power house of brotherhood and companionship.

ANNUAL MEETING OF PITTSBURGH ALUMNI

On Friday, May 18, 1934, the Twenty-Fifth Annual Meeting of the Alumni Association of Western Pennsylvania was held at the Fox Chapel Golf Club.

There were thirty-three at the dinner and two or three others dropped in after the dinner to see Mr. Scudder, who very kindly came down to represent the School. Many of the old guard were either out of town or were unable to attend.

In the afternoon the usual golf tournament was held, with the result that Mr. A. K. Oliver won the cup with a low gross of 78. Low net went to L. S. Mudge — 88 minus 14 — 74. The best ball against par was tied by Hill Burgwin and W. W. Holloway, both being three down to par. The tense situation occasioned by this tie was settled by rolling it off with dice, with the result that the third prize went to Hill Burgwin.

The business meeting was held with due solemnity, with the following results:

President, J. Frederic Byers
Vice-President, Augustus K. Oliver
Secretary and Treasurer, Wilfrid Murtland

Mr. Byers appointed B. F. Jones III and Thos. J. Hilliard to act with the officers as an Executive Committee. After the election of officers, the Secretary was instructed to prepare a resolution on the death of H. Raymond Hilliard, who died on January 5th.

After dinner Mr. Scudder gave a most delightful talk on the happenings of School, and afterwards all joined in a friendly gathering until later than most are accustomed to stay up. However, it was apparently a great success, even though the number was limited.

HISTORY OF ST. PAUL’S SCHOOL

"St. Paul's School," by Arthur Stanwood Pier, '90, a book of nearly 400 pages, abundantly illustrated, is to be published by Charles Scribner’s Sons, New York, in the autumn. It is a comprehensive account of the founding and growth of the School, of the principal figures in its history, and of the various aspects and activities of school life from the earliest days to the present time. Circulars giving a more detailed description of the work will be sent to all Alumni of the School in advance of publication.
ADDRESS TO THE GRADUATING SIXTH FORM

By JOHN C. JAY ('91—'97)

IN a far-off camp near the present City of Vienna, a great Roman was dying. Almost everything that was worth while in life had come to him. Soldier, statesman, founder of schools, consul, conqueror, Emperor — he was the idol of the solid citizen on the Appian Way, while the roisterer in the bleachers of the Circus cheered him as “Antoninus of the Thundering Legion.” We know him best as Marcus Aurelius, the stoic; Marcus Aurelius, the philosopher. As his intimates gathered ’round his bed of pain — for some way he was poisoned — he said:

“If you do the work that is before you, following right reason seriously, vigorously, calmly, without allowing anything else to distract you; if you keep your divine part pure, as if you were required to give it back immediately; if you hold to this, you will live happy. And no man can take this happiness from you.”

Your work here is completed. You are about to enter college — some of you to begin a career in the world. It is a hoary custom in all academic forums that on the granting of a diploma to the graduate, some ancient shall be called on to utter words of wisdom — to make a graduation address.

In thousands of such talks and addresses every year, I suppose each speaker is seeking for something new to say, some piece of advice to give young men that will be palatable. It can’t be done. The eternal verities are humdrum indeed, but it is what makes them eternal.

I take it that each of you is looking forward eagerly to his new experience and to success. And by success I mean that in whatever calling your bent shall lead you, you shall be well rated by your colleagues and peers, by those whose own training and experience best fit them to be your judge and jury. It is one thing to be rated a good oar by the piazza gang; another to be rated by the men in the boathouse. You know which rating you want. And this end can be obtained only by work. And right away you are saying to yourselves that I am preaching to you an old copybook maxim, that stale and everlasting verity — work.

I, frankly, have no patience with the many isms of an exotic modernity that aim to lure boys and girls along the path of learning by making it rosy and attractive, the process sugar-coated and palatable. There is only one way to attain an education or anything worth while and lasting in life, that is, by work. I am talking to a group who have rowed, played football, and have been on the track team, and if you will think in terms of that experience, you yourselves will say that I am right. Can you imagine any one of you saying to Captain Blodgett or Captain Oliver, “I think I won’t row today because I am tired, or it’s cold, or I have a date, but I will read all about rowing this afternoon and look at pictures of famous oarsmen, or watch the crews from the slopes of Long Pond in order to study their form and correct my own errors?"

I have been in a boat. I know what that last quarter mile is, when your back is breaking, and your mouth is dry, and your temples throb, and it's only guts that keeps you going, the stamina, the know-how you got by hours of work way back last winter in the smelly gym on the machines, and the subsequent grind of training. But it is just that which kept you swinging with rhythm and power if you did your job in that last quarter mile, and you and I wouldn't swap that success for the wealth of Ophir.

So don't look on college as just a lark and drift and idle and say you will work, "but not too hard." Do your work, and do it hard. This depression has taught those of us who have been in the thick of it one thing — that the unfit and the untrained are ruthlessly eliminated. Today, when young men come to modern business and the professions, seeking a toe hold on the bottom of the ladder, college records are scanned and Deans are consulted. What was Bill Jones' record at college? Did he do well? Did he work? I need not labor it with boys of your background and intelligence; the analogy of your own athletic experience will bring it home to you. No one ever made the team by loafing on the sidelines. And let me tell you that a Phi Beta Kappa key will open more doors than a glad-hand.

One last word: If this school has given you something, has fitted you for work in college or the world, you owe it an obligation. What you make of yourself will be counted for good or ill to the credit or debit of your Alma Mater. Your Sixth Form has made an outstanding record here, in scholarship, in your varied activities, in character. You've worked. Keep that record clean, and keep green the memory of this rare place. Remember how proudly the old psalmist sang —

"Think upon the tribe of thine inheritance
And Mount Zion wherein thou has dwelt."

THE NEW ALUMNI DIRECTORY

The arduous work of publishing the new directory of the Alumni of the School has finally been completed. Those alumni who have ordered and paid for copies of the Directory have already received them.

A small quantity has been ordered to supply future needs, and alumni who have not ordered copies and now wish to obtain them may do so by sending check in payment and the address to which the Directory should be mailed. The paper bound edition costs $1.00 per copy and the cloth bound edition $1.50 per copy, postage charges prepaid.

Address all orders and communications regarding the Directory to Clarence E. West, Executive Secretary, 522 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

William Hale Harkness, '18, Treasurer.
On motion duly seconded, both these reports were approved and ordered filed.
John H. Stewart, '10, Chairman of the Alumni Fund Committee, then read a report of the work of his Committee for this year, and a statement of collections to date.

REPORT OF THE CHAIRMAN OF THE 1934 ALUMNI FUND COMMITTEE TO THE ANNUAL MEETING OF
THE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION OF ST. PAUL'S SCHOOL

No specific action by the Trustees of the School has been taken this year as to the allocation of the gift to the School which will be made from the 1934 Alumni Fund. As all of the Alumni are probably aware, a substantial portion of the gifts made during the past few years has been applied towards emergency scholarships to boys "who are sons of Alumni or members of St. Paul's families," and it is noteworthy that such gifts made possible the continuance in the School of at least twenty boys during the year now closing.

It is hoped that by the school year 1935-36 (for which period this year's gift will be applicable) the need for such emergency scholarships may have lessened somewhat. Hence, the Alumni Fund Committee proposes to suggest to the Standing Committee at its meeting in November that the gift from this year's Fund be used in the discretion of the Board of Trustees for such school purposes as may be most practical at that time.

At the suggestion of Mr. Leonard Sullivan, the 1904 Form Agent, an innovation was tried this year in an endeavor to broaden the scope of, and interest in, the Fund. This consisted of the appointment of twenty-three so-called Regional Directors in an equivalent number of cities where there are many Alumni but no Form Agents. It was felt that, in instances where the Agents could reach members of their Forms only by mail, personal calls by these Directors might be beneficial in securing additional contributions and arousing interest in the Fund. While it is hard to analyze the definite results of this, it is felt that a considerable amount of benefit to the Fund has been accomplished. The Alumni Fund Committee selected with considerable care the names of those requested to act as Regional Directors, and it is my privilege to record here the practically unanimous response and continued cooperation of those outstanding Alumni so selected.

As of June 1st, the Alumni Fund has received $10,225.05 from 980 Alumni, thus making the average gift $10.43. Included in this tabulation is the 25th Anniversary Gift of the Sixth Form of 1909, amounting to $307.00 from 20 members of that Form. These figures compare with the report at Anniversary last year showing gifts of $9,106.00 from 757 Alumni, an average contribution of $11.97.

The leading Form in percentage standing is 1910, with John H. Stewart as Form Agent, which reports 44 contributions from a possible 72, or a percentage of 61.11. Second is 1859-65, Gen. Francis H. Appleton, Form Agent, with a percentage of 50, and third, 1879, F. Kingsbury Curtis, Form Agent, who has a ratio of 46.66%.
As to the dollar amount collected, Samuel T. Callaway, Form Agent for 1900 leads with $491.00, followed by Dr. Joseph S. Wheelwright of 1893 with $398.00, and Dr. Arthur E. Neergaard of 1899, whose total is $379.00.

As customary, the final report of the 1934 Fund will not be made until the close of the year and all Alumni who have not so far contributed are urged to send in their gifts to their respective Agents.

It is with deep regret that we must record the death during the campaign of Edward T. Nichols, Form Agent for 1856-70, and Albert L. Smith, Form Agent for 1908, both of whom had served with conspicuous ability for many years. Lord B. Hillard, who had for some time acted as Form Agent for 1878, died in January, and Mr. W. Strother Jones, Sr., with his customary graciousness assumed the work for that Form as well as for his own Form of 1877.

It is the privilege and pleasure of your Chairman to acknowledge with pride the splendid cooperation which has been rendered by all Agents. Their work is difficult and burdensome and evidences in no uncertain measure their loyalty to, and love for, St. Paul's.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN H. STEWART, '10,
Chairman, 1934 Alumni Fund Committee.

At the President's request, Frederick B. Adams, '96, gave a short account of the School History, telling of its inception and completion. He paid a very high tribute to the work of Arthur S. Pier, '90, the historian, and advised the Alumni that they would all have the privilege of reading the work, soon to be published, next Fall.

Clarence E. West, '97, made a report for the Committee on the new Alumni Directory, which was published in April, announcing that 1071 copies had been sold and that a limited number of additional copies were available.

On the suggestion of the President, the Association voted to send greetings to Groton School on the occasion of its Fiftieth Anniversary.

The Secretary then read the list of members reported deceased during the past year. All those present stood at attention while this list was read.

The President then read the following telegram from Francis H. Bohlen, '84, which had been received by Dr. Drury:

"My dear Dr. Drury — It is a source of great regret that pressing business has kept me away from the Fiftieth Anniversary of our Form. May I take this occasion to express my deep loyalty to the School and appreciation of what it has done for me and my children."
John C. Jay, '97, the President, then made his report; short, delightful, and humorous.

John C. Jay, '97, the President, appointed the following Nominating Committee to serve for the ensuing year:

Trowbridge Callaway, Chairman
Abbot Treadwell
John H. Stewart
Henry B. Thompson, Jr.
Henry M. Watts, Jr.

Abbot Treadwell, '81, Chairman of the Committee on Nominations, then offered a list of names nominated for officers and members of the Standing Committee for the ensuing year. (See last page).

On motion duly seconded, the Secretary was instructed to cast one ballot for the officers and members as nominated.

The President then escorted the newly elected President, J. Frederic Byers, '00, to the platform.

Mr. Byers made a few brief remarks, accepting the position, thanking the Association for the honor conferred upon him, and emphasizing his desire to keep the Alumni Association and its organization up to the high standards set by his predecessors.

There being no further business brought before the meeting, it was voted to adjourn.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) Abbot Treadwell, Secretary.

THE RETIRING PRESIDENT

John C. Jay, '97, who retired as President of the Alumni Association on Anniversary Day 1934, goes out with a fine record. The three last incumbents might well be called the “War Presidents” as they carried on with great spirit through an era which for a large majority of the Alumni has truly been worse than any war. But with all due respect to Mr. Prentice and Mr. Callaway, it is probable that the darkest days of that era (we hope) occurred between June, 1932 and June, 1934.

In the halcyon days of the 19th and early part of the 20th Century, the Alumni Association seems to have been a very easy going institution. There was a meeting at School on the eve of Anniversary, and occasionally in various cities there were smokers and dinners, or perhaps a hockey game with St. Mark’s at the old St. Nicholas Rink in New York. As membership in the Association required the payment of annual dues, there were plenty of Alumni who weren’t even members.

The Trustees of the School knew there was such an organization but there was no official recognition of that body. No representative of the Association as such had a seat on the Board.
With the completion of the Endowment Fund effort of 1919-20 all this was changed. An executive office was set up in New York, and the Alumni Fund was inaugurated. Not long afterward the value of the President of the Association as a liaison officer between the Alumni and the Corporation was recognized by the Trustees who voted to make the President of the Association while in office a member of the Board. The job had become a real one.

At any rate, it has been regarded in that light and by none more than by Mr. Jay. The hackneyed phrase, “untiring devotion,” is entirely accurate in describing his attitude. Rarely, if ever, has he been absent when anything of importance was occurring at the School, not the least of his contributions being a young man who was graduated this June with high honors.

A few Alumni may think that the financial aspect of the Association has taken undue importance. But the Alumni Fund is here to stay, and Mr. Jay, as one of the early Form Agents, has long been one of its most enthusiastic advocates. When he took over in 1932, he was fortunate in having Carll Tucker, '00, as Chairman of the Fund. In the depth of the depression Mr. Tucker had taken hold with enthusiasm, when some had advised that the Fund be temporarily given up, and though the total of $13,108.11 raised that year was far below that of the boom years, it showed the wisdom of the decision to carry on. Again Mr. Tucker was persuaded to head the campaign in 1933, finishing the year, in which for a time every bank in the United States was closed, with the surprisingly large total of $12,060.50.

With the retirement of Mr. Tucker, Mr. Jay looked for a worthy successor to lead the 1934 drive, and finally chose one of the younger Alumni, John H. Stewart, '10. The wisdom of this choice is apparent, when we look at the total received up to July 5th, — $11,686.54.

As a presiding officer there have been few to excel Jack Jay. Ever ready with a Latin quotation or an apt phrase from the English poets, he is a standing refutation of the old theory that a successful American financier should be unable to express himself gracefully.

It would be interesting to look at a few additional high lights of his administration: the two hockey games in New York from which about $1,500 each year was contributed to the School Camp and Coit House; the recent publication of the Alumni Directory; the completion of the long awaited School History and delivery of the manuscript to the publishers for publication this fall; the economies effected in the executive office through consolidation with the office of the Kappa Alpha Society; and the splendid Alumni Service at St. Bartholomew's in New York in April. All in all, during these days of trial, Jack Jay has done well. He deserves our thanks.

STUART D. PRESTON, '02.
JOHN FREDERIC BYERS, ('95-'00)
New President of the St. Paul's School Alumni Association

Perhaps the pleasantest one of the many pleasant experiences that have fallen to me in connection with the presidency of the St. Paul's School Alumni Association is the very last of all — to be able to write a line about a schoolmate and friend, my successor, John Frederic Byers.

St. Paul's has always been strong in Pittsburgh, and it has been due in large part to the four brothers, Alec, Dallas, Eben, and Fritz Byers, whose very names have the tang of smoke and iron. Three of the brothers have died; two of them I knew at school — Dallas and Eben, the latter my own classmate. He was a dear friend of mine, a true sportsman, a magnificent golfer. Fritz, too, our new President, was at school with me, and like his brother, has always stood for the best in sportsmanship. I can still hear the staccato of his voice when, as captain in the stern of the Halcyon shell, he drove his crew. This year, a similar but younger voice, his own boy's, snapped the first Halcyons into action and victory. That is the grand thing about St. Paul's and its eighty years of history — the old names repeat, and the blood strain stays strong.

On leaving St. Paul's, Fritz Byers went to Yale, where he was coxswain of the Varsity, Chairman of the Junior Prom, and a member of Scroll and Key. In 1905 he married Caroline M. Morris, daughter of Effingham B. Morris, dean of bankers and leading and beloved citizen of Philadelphia. There are three sons — one an alumnus, and two now at St. Paul's — and one daughter.

Leaving Yale, our President entered the old firm of A. M. Byers & Co., a veritable household name, and in time became its Chairman. Further responsibilities gradually came — directorships in the Union Trust, Union Savings, Union National, the Westinghouse Air Brake, Union Switch & Signal, and Western Allegheny Railroad, the honors of trusteeships in the Carnegie Institute and its affiliates, and the presidency of the Pittsburgh Club.

His interest in golf continued and has brought him the signal distinction of membership on the Rules Committee of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of Scotland, than which there is no higher authority.

Loyal alumnus of St. Paul's, outstanding graduate of Yale, man of large affairs, fine sportsman, with three sons following his footsteps, the Alumni Association of St. Paul's School is fortunate in its new leadership.

Will you forgive the jest, Fritz? St. Paul's has what the country needs — Byers.

John C. Jay, '91-'97.
ALUMNI HORAE
St. Paul's School

To the Alumni:
Will you write us, giving announcements of engagements, marriages, births of children and items for the Alumni Notes column, and also anecdotes and stories of your days in School? Send us old photographs, which we will be careful to return. These are all of interest to other alumni. The Alumni Office should always be advised of the death of an alumnus. Any suggestions as to the editorial policy will be welcome. COMMITTEE ON PUBLICATION.

ALUMNI NOTES

'70—The first book on F. Marion Crawford, the popular novelist of some fifty years ago, has been written by his cousin, Mrs. Maud Howe Elliott, the daughter of Julia Ward Howe, and will be published in the early fall by Macmillan. The title is to be "My Cousin, F. Marion Crawford." Mr. Crawford, who was at St. Paul's from 1866 to 1869, died in 1909.

'77—In the April issue of The Atlantic Monthly Owen Wister publishes a very brilliant study of the late John Jay Chapman, '79.

'80—Among the School's graduates, none stood higher in loyalty and love than James Gregory Mumford. A large number of volumes from the late Dr. Mumford's library have been given to the School, which will be cherished for all time. These 400 volumes came from the shelves of a talented writer and a widely known physician, whom some friends called "The Dr. Holmes of his generation." Form mates of James Mumford (1878-1881) will be glad to know that his brothers have made this gift to the School.

'82—Alanson B. Houghton has been chosen chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton University.

'83—Stephen Bonsal has contributed a very delightful story to the June number of Scribner's Magazine.

'83—The London Times of Dec. 23, 1933 pays an unusual tribute to the late Egisto Paolo Fabbri. His ideal of bringing beauty into the lives of people whose daily routine was of the hardest expressed itself in two monuments: first, he caused to be built in the remote mountain village of Serravalle, Italy, a church of stone quarried from the native hills by the villagers who every Sunday morning donated so much time and labor toward the building; and, secondly, he established a choir school for the training of the natives in singing the old Gregorian music. The Instituto di San Gregorio in Florence is an outgrowth of this original choir school.

'84—Treasurer J. P. Morgan of the Church Pension Fund of the Protestant Episcopal Church has issued a quarterly report showing that the fund's investments have so enhanced in value that they are now above cost.

'86—Edward Hall Chapin, who for thirty-two years has been a member of the New York Railroad Club, received on January 5th, 1934, a life membership in recognition of his notable work in engineering, from which he retired a year and a half ago.

'93—Edward S. Harkness has donated funds for another unit in the group of dormitories at Yale to be known as Timothy Dwight Hall.

'96—Keyes Winter has been appointed a municipal court justice in New York City under the Fusion administration of Mayor LaGuardia.

'98—"Poems in Shorthand" by Benjamin R. C. Low has just been published by the Columbia University Press. The New York Times' critic says: "The dignity which obtains throughout, the sweetness of vision, the clean beauty, make these poems stimulating. They are honest."

'01—LeRoy King has been appointed State Director for the National Emergency Council of the State of Rhode Island.

'04—Charles Elliott Tilton has been appointed State Director for the National Emergency Council of New Hampshire.

'04—Edward D. Toland, former member of the N. H. Legislature, is now a member of Governor Winant's commission for study of liquor control. He has also recently been elected the first commander of the Concord Chapter of the American Veterans' Association of which Thomas K. Fisher, '13 was elected secretary-treasurer.

'05—Charles M. B. Cadwalader, managing director of the Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia, received the honorary degree of Master of Science at the recent University of Pennsylvania commencement.

'06—William Fellowes Morgan, Jr., is being highly commended for his fearless stand against racketeering in his new office of Commissioner of Public Markets of New York City. Alexander Hamilton, '21, is working with him, being in charge of Weights and Measures.

'17—Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr.'s film record of events in Germany under Hitler is being currently shown. The picture is "Hitler's Reign of Terror."

'21—The Atlantic Monthly Press has published a volume of collected short stories by Walter Dumaux Edmonds entitled "Mostly Canallers," which has been very favorably reviewed by the critics.

'22—The Boston Herald (April 22, 1934) carries a feature article on "Bay State's Youngest Mayor, a Fighting 'New Dealer'". He proves to be Robert E. Greenwood, militant leader for clean government in Fitchburg, Mass.

'24—Winston Guest is legal consultant to Alderman Joseph Clark Baldwin, 3rd, '16, Republican minority leader of the Board of Aldermen of New York City.

'30—G. Arthur Gordon, Jr., son of G. Arthur Gordon, '89, has been chosen as the recipient of a Rhodes Scholarship and will enter Oxford in October.

'30—Francis L. Van Dusen was high honor man of the graduating class at Princeton this year and was selected by the faculty to deliver the Latin salutatory oration at the recent commencement.

'32—August Heckscher, 2d, received the prize of $500, offered through Yale University for the Aline Brother Morris Fund of New York for the best essay written by a Yale undergraduate on American citizenship. He is the son of G. Maurice Heckscher, '01.

FROM THE NEW YORK TIMES.

The decoration Les Palmes d’Officier d’Académie has been awarded by the Government of France to Henry Metcalfe Fiske, head of the French department of St. Paul’s School.

The diploma cited Mr. Fiske’s distinction in the teaching of French and his activities in promoting American understanding of the French nation.

Mr. Fiske, who was born in Boston on October 15, 1874, has headed the French department at St. Paul’s school since 1905, and first joined it as a teacher in 1897 following his graduation from Harvard. He is president of the Cercle Française at St. Paul’s, founded by students in 1928.

He was chairman of the modern language committee of the Secondary Education Board, which introduced various innovations calculated to liberalize college and school requirements in French and to put modern languages more nearly on a par with the classics.

The French Ministry of Public Education and Fine Arts, in nominating Mr. Fiske for the honor, it was said, had been impressed in part by his work in bringing prominent French educators to St. Paul’s as guest lecturers.
