Vol. 14 December, 1934 No. 3

THE RECTOR'S LETTER

November 12, 1934.

DEAR OLD BOYS:

(I almost began Dear Alumni, but that is a word which we are abandoning, are we not? It is new-fangled, without sentiment or good usage. I looked it up in Dr. Johnson’s dictionary the other day, finding only alum and always! Somehow it is cozier to say Old Boys, as we do in the Prayer for you every Sunday night in Chapel, and so this Monday morning I begin again, Dear Old Boys).

A very beautiful day it is, appropriate for an Armistice Holiday. We commemorated in Chapel yesterday all those brethren and companions for whom you erected the War Memorial, and who are freshly remembered here every year before the School altar, and at many other times besides. The flag bearers brought a colorful touch to the service, and the sermon at six p.m. by Dr. Kinsolving of Trinity Church, Boston, gave just the appeal to build a new world which that talented and winning preacher is sure to inspire. We also sang as a congregational anthem Whittier’s fine words “Oh Brother Man, Fold to Thy Heart Thy Brother.”

This singing is an evidence of a renewed keenness for music in the School. The art to which Mr. James Knox so vigorously gave all his interests should in a place like this mean more and more. Mr. Thomas’ work is bearing fruit. The orchestra increases, the classes in musical appreciation in the first and second forms are laying a real foundation of understanding, the congregational participation is growing; and (not by way of climax) the rubber band is still thrumming away!

On Saturday we sent to each of you from the School post office a copy of the Annual Report, where you will find thirteen printed pages from me, and as many more from the Treasurer. Having there told you just about everything that is in my mind concerning the School, you will understand the brevity of this present letter. Besides, I look forward to personal sights of many of you at several centres during the School year. We are to have meetings in Philadelphia on January 20th, in Baltimore on February 11th; I hope to meet with some of our alumni in Providence in early March; and there is sure to be the annual gathering in New York during the spring. Besides these, we are aiming towards Minneapolis, Cleveland, Los Angeles, Savannah, where not? When old boys come to look over the School, and to renew their youth in youth’s best beloved surroundings, how glad we are! This autumn a specially large number of such visitors have come to visit the place and its people. Keep up these visits, please. Such interchanges are nothing but a joy.

Believe me,

Ever yours,

S. S. DRURY.

P.S.—This noon while standing in the Common Room of Hargate, the Bishop of Honolulu asked me (as everybody is asking), “Have you read GOODBYE MR. CHIPS?” I said, as everybody is replying, “Yes.” And just then the Bishop’s eye wandered to the portrait* of Mr. Hargate which, as you know, hangs over the fireplace. I then told him about the subject of the portrait, and he replied, “Why, he seems to have been just like Mr. Chips.” If you too have read this charming story of school life, and if you knew Mr. Hargate, may you not agree that Mr. Chips can well remind us of the master who is so venerated and beloved here at St. Paul’s?

THE SCHOOL IN ACTION

IN Action! The very words call to mind the rushing moving mass of players and coaches, managers and spectators, that immediately with the opening of the school year began to make their way, afternoon following afternoon, to the Lower Grounds. Rugby players, soccer players, trap-shooters, Rifle Club members, and yes! there did appear a team here and there of football enthusiasts. As the fall progressed, a long series of ideal days gave the many coaches a chance to encourage that particular activity in which they were interested.

For the first time, the benefits of the new football schedule were apparent, and noted with satisfaction by all those who, last year, decided to lengthen the interval between the club games and to dispense with any outside contest whatsoever. Never have there been fewer injuries. Never was there such excitement in the school during the last three minutes, at least, of the championship game between the Delphians and the Old Hundreds. The execution of plays on all the teams of every club showed a marked improvement over last year’s, and the enthusiasm of the players was spontaneous and lasting, especially as it was not called on to withstand any such frozen ground and chilling temperatures as have, on other occasions, taxed the ardor of even the most stalwart.

The opening game of the season was won by the Old Hundreds, when they defeated the Isthmians on a muddy field. The score was 15—0. Some days later, the Delphians and the Old Hundreds battled to a scoreless tie in a hard game that showed up flaws in the offense of both teams; the first round ended as the Delphians carried the fight to the Isthmians to win 13—6.

As the second round began, the Old Hundreds, after a respite of ten days, were tied by an improved Isthmian eleven, one of whose members ran a kick back 75 yards to a touchdown, aided by some inspired interference. The Old Hundreds scored shortly afterward, driving the ball 60 yards in fourteen plays, four of which were passes. As neither side kicked the point, the score remained 6–6 until the game ended. The second Delphian-Old Hundred contest was a thrilling battle. Coming from behind in the second half, with the score one touchdown against them, the Old Hundreds pulled the chestnuts out of the fire, by taking to the air in the latter half of the game and scoring twice, showing some of the passing technique that was to bring them through to the championship. The Delphians came back to put the Isthmians out of their series; the second round of games had gone by, with promise of a close struggle.

The Old Hundreds opened the last lap by administering a smashing 32–0 defeat to the Isthmians. This score, however, did not quite equal the 34–0 runaway of 1933, that several members of this year’s teams remembered. Then came the final game of a splendid season. In the final few minutes of the game, after both Delphians and Old Hundreds had made many sustained drives down the field, after much really good football had been demonstrated to an enthusiastic audience, after the score had rested 7–6 in favor of the Delphians for a whole quarter, the blue-jerseyed players fought their way to the twenty yard line for a first down. An attempted pass lost ten yards; a second try lost another fifteen; many thought then that the game was over; but no! nothing daunted, the Old Hundreds tried yet another pass, that went for ten yards only. Fourth down and thirty-five yards to go! One minute remained. With a last despairing gesture, the ends tore down the field, and one of them caught the ball for a first down, and ran to the Delphian three-yard line. It was a splendid play, and paved the way for the touchdown that followed, with thirty seconds to go, thirty seconds that passed as in a dream, so excited were both sides. After all the tumult, one is pleased that the joy of the game was felt by both sides, that however fierce the enthusiasm, however keen the rivalry, all players and coaches “sit down and eat as friends.”

Although football, as is natural, considering the number of participants, held the center of the athletic stage, soccer found devotees, affording pleasant recreation to many. The prospects of a game with Harvard alumni who find time to get back from Cambridge often, have served as a stimulus to the interest shown. Then too, before the weather became too cold to be comfortable for the sharpshooters, the rifle range at the Lower Grounds was crowded. For the first time, several perfect targets were turned in, with ten bulls-eyes out of ten at 50 feet. The interest in this sport has grown markedly throughout the fall, and the school teams entered in national scholastic competition have done creditably. Near the rifle range, trapshooters have been busy shattering numberless clay pigeons, steadying hands and sharpening aim in preparation for the annual Thanksgiving Day competition.

Outside the realm of athletics, so much of interest has taken place that it is difficult to draw an adequate picture for those alumni who have not been able to get a first-hand impression of their own. The excitement that was felt about the alterations in the Old Chapel, the “gas house,” and the gymnasium spread quickly through the rank and file of the boys, who returned from summer holidays very curious to find out just what had been done in their absence, and quick to appreciate all improvements. How much more dignified have been the assemblies in the Hall, how much more decorous the procedure of presenting to hundreds of boys the opportunity of hearing visiting lecturers, speakers, and musicians. The wild scramble for seats has been done away with. No longer does a second floor present problems of approach and fire hazards. No longer is the joy of a moving picture marred by inadequate presentation and faulty sound effects. The new Hall is graced by a stage that any dramatic club would be proud of, and from which have faced the school such speakers as Arthur Emmons, '29, who gave an account of his mountain climbing expedition in Tibet, Mr. E. Putnam, who in a series of illustrated talks on architecture is arousing interest in his subject, and Alexander Woolcott, who treated his hearers to a hilarious time. The London String Quartet presented a well balanced musical program, during part of which they were joined by Florence MacBride, who, more familiarly known to the school as Mrs. Thomas, has done so much to help her husband in his work as musical director.

The Library has taken a new hold on the school. Miss Hopkins has indeed won the admiration and cooperation of the members of the school community. By rearrangement, tasteful decoration, and untiring patience, she has given new life to a part of the school formerly too little enjoyed by the boys. During the week, and of a Saturday or Sunday night, they move in and out of the portals in shoals.

Taken all in all, the school has been carried along by a great and cheerful enthusiasm, not the mere excitability that goes with novelty, but a sharing of interests that should be lasting and productive, so that with the next writing of this résumé, there should be much to report.

ST. PAUL’S PICTORIAL

THE S.P.S. Pictorial is to make its appearance again this year, published by a group of boys at the School who are interested in photography. It will form an interesting record, through its pictures, of daily life at the School.

The same general plan is to be followed this year, providing support from the School and Alumni as general as last year.

The project cannot be carried through without the generous support of the Alumni, and it is hoped that many will subscribe. The subscription price is one dollar for three issues. Checks should be made payable to St. Paul’s School Pictorial and sent to Abbott Widdicombe, St. Paul’s School, Concord, N. H.
OUR alumni scarcely realize how much Saint Paul’s boys have contributed to the growth and success of the game of Polo in this country. Louis Stoddard (’91-’95), the active head of the sport for the past ten years (the period of its greatest growth), is an old boy. The world’s greatest player for many years, Thomas Hitchcock, Jr. (’12-’17), was president of the sixth form in 1917. This past Fall, three of the Eastern Team, Michael Phipps (’23-’28), Jimmy Mills (’23-’28) and Winston Guest (’21-’23), attended St. Paul’s School. In all, we have about seventy living Alumni and nine boys at School who have at one time played or are still playing.

There was a time when a democratic point of view could not approve of the game; when business looked upon it as played too much in anticipation of cheering refreshments following each match; and when it was felt that if you played polo you automatically became a member of “that fast Long Island polo crowd,” a nebulous group to those of us who live there. Just how unfounded accusations of this kind were is only recently beginning to make itself felt as the game has stretched from one coast to the other, bringing to it players from all over the country, from every walk of life, and playing on every conceivable kind of animal on four legs, but all, to a man, good sportsmen.

If I were to mention all the alumni who have been connected with the game I would ramble on for pages but there are a few who should be dwelt upon. Besides Stoddard and Hitchcock, who are probably our most prominent polo-wise alumni, we have “Skiddy” von Stade, Sr., (’00-’03) who has for a long time been one of the game’s most active supporters both on Long Island and at Aiken. This past summer he was Chairman of the Eastern Committee, whose team so successfully overcame its more brawny rivals from the West. In this task he was ably assisted by James C. Cooley (’90-’97). To anyone playing polo, hunting, steeplechasing, or having anything to do with the horse at all, “Jimmy” is to horsemen what Boswell was to Johnson. A gallant sportsman himself, it is to him we must be thankful for a complete chronicle of the game for the past twenty-five years.

At the present time our most brilliant playing alumnus is Winston Guest, the “Beau Brummel” of the game, whose rise to the top flight came almost as early as Tommy Hitchcock’s, and who now occupies a rating on a par with him. After completing a brilliant season’s play this year where, with his brother, Stewart Iglehart and Michael Phipps, he won both the U. S. Open Championship and the Monty Waterbury Cup, the two most important tournaments of the year, he has gone to India to play the game in the country of its early youth. In addition, he has recently been elected President of the Indoor Polo Association. Running for the New York State Senate on the Republican ticket this Fall, Winston came very near defeating the Democratic opposition in a district that has been a Tammany stronghold for years.

Another of our alumni who distinguished himself this past season is James P. Mills, whose father, Paul D. Mills (’92-’94), did so much to develop the game in Philadelphia. Jimmy was a member of the Eastern team and, with Ebby Gerry (’23-’27), Stewart Iglehart (’23-’28) and myself, played on the Old Aiken team from 1921 through 1931. Gerry and Iglehart were both substitutes for the Eastern Team this past summer.

Among our Eastern alumni I should not pass over Michael Phipps who has become the outstanding No. 1 in the country after his play on the Eastern team and the Open Championship this Fall, and whose family, many of whom are alumni, have always been keen supporters of the game.

In New Jersey, Gouverneur Carnochan (’04-’10), as head of the Intercollegiate Polo Association, has done a great deal to foster this sport’s progress in the colleges, over twenty of them now recognizing polo as one of their sports.
Travelling westward we find David Ingalls ('12-'16) of Cleveland, Assistant Secretary of the Navy under Hoover, who has contributed materially to the development of the game in that section. On the Pacific Coast, Grant Schley ('24-'27) has been stimulating polo and taking an active part, while farther west in Hawaii one of the Dillinghams is carrying on the family tradition of being an enthusiastic player.

It is interesting to note that in this sport, which is still growing up, there are S.P.S. alumni at the head of all three divisions. We who play or have played hope, I know, that more and more of the alumni and those at School will take up the game. Someone once said that "horses are noble animals and all those who are fond of them are enriched thereby," or words to that effect, and I feel quite sure that such is the case. Two essential requisites for polo are good sportsmanship and a desire to give your best at all times, and the reason that so many of our alumni are at the top is, I often think, because of the mental outlook moulded for them at school, where both these points were driven home so forcefully that they will never forget them.

JOSEPH C. RATHBORNE ('23-'27).

MESSAGE FROM PRESIDENT BYERS

It is a great pleasure to have the honor as President of the Alumni Association of St. Paul's School to send greetings to the Alumni and best wishes to the Rector and to the School.

It will be my endeavor to carry on and, if possible, further cement the close relationship established by my predecessors between the Alumni and the School.

In the Annual Report of the Rector for the year 1934 Dr. Drury states: "Our Alumni have always been partners in School prosperity. Surely no group of graduates care more, either sentimentally or practically, for their old School than the 'old boys' of St. Paul's."

The affection which the Alumni of St. Paul's have for the School is greater and finer than exists in any other school or university. There is something intangible in the atmosphere of St. Paul's School that would seem to tie the Alumni very closely to the School.

Among the bonds which serve to keep the Alumni in close contact with the School are the Annual St. Paul's Service in New York, the Annual Hockey Game at Christmas time, the gatherings of Alumni in various cities, the Alumni Fund which is of vital assistance to the School, and the New York office of the Alumni Association, 522 Fifth Avenue, where our Secretary, Clarence E. West, '07, is at all times ready and willing to do anything he can for the Alumni or the School.

May I again express my appreciation of the honor that you have conferred upon me and send to you my greetings and very best wishes, with a request that you do everything in your power to encourage and maintain the splendid spirit and reputation of St. Paul's School.

To the Alumni:
Will you write us, giving announcements of engagements, marriages, births of children and items for the Alumni Notes column, and also anecdotes and stories of your days in School? Send us old photographs, which we will be careful to return. These are all of interest to other alumni. The Alumni Office should always be advised of the death of an alumnus. Any suggestions as to the editorial policy will be welcome. COMMITTEE ON PUBLICATION.

EDITORIAL

We know that we are expressing the feelings of the entire Alumni body in offering our sympathy to J. Frederic Byers, President of the Alumni Association, and his family, in the great loss they have sustained through the recent death of Mrs. Byers.

MR. Reeve Schley, '99, at the Form Agents' Dinner in 1933, threw out a suggestion which appealed to us very much at the time, and still does. Why not, he said in effect, give, during the sixth form year, one or more purely cultural courses which would tend to broaden the intellectual horizon and perhaps awaken a healthy curiosity which would result in independent reading and study later in life?

We take it that what the speaker had in mind would be an introduction to such subjects as economics, philosophy, music, and the fine arts. Although Adam Smith, Mill, the Laissez-faire System, Plato, Spinoza, Bach, Gothic Architecture, and Sir Christopher Wren may in some quarters be considered as discarded relics, it would be a splendid thing to give sixth formers a glimpse of the men and ideas forming the basis of Western civilization.

In this connection we note with interest and hearty approval a paragraph in the Rector's Report for 1934 suggesting the possibility of a distinct curriculum for those not headed for college. "Tolerant treatment of the obviously non-college type," writes the Rector, "must grow apace with us. We agree that certain boys should reside here with no thought of going further. This will mean, beginning with Forms III and IV, the placing of a few boys yearly in a new course of study. No disparagement will attend such sterling citizens who, on leaving us, go to work instead of to college."

This is excellent. Whether such a curriculum, if established, will include for the older boys such subjects as we have mentioned is not indicated. We hope it will. And if it does, we hope that those sixth formers who are headed for college will be invited to share in the intellectual feast. For some of them, alas, will not survive the Freshman year. And the more fortunate remainder will find themselves better equipped to make a wise selection in the elective courses of their Sophomore and later years.
BOOK REVIEW

New York: Charles Scribner's Sons, 1934.

The following paper was read by Mr. Scudder at a Masters' Meeting, and was published in the Horae Scholasticae.

A GREAT book on a great subject. A man, not an old St. Paul's boy, after reading it at a single sitting, thus characterized Mr. Pier's handsome volume, entitled St. Paul's School.

The words are a true description of this book, which has fully justified the hopes of all, since we heard who was to write the history. It was projected originally in the winter of 1929, to mark the 75th anniversary of the School two years later. By a happy series of events, it has fallen to Mr. Pier to accomplish a veritable labour of love. It is not matter for surprise to those who know his gifts as a writer that he has succeeded beyond our most ardent hopes, and has produced a book of unflagging interest, a living picture of living men, the account of the growth, far beyond the imagination of the founders of St. Paul's, of a great institution. Written in a singularly graceful style, lighted by unfailing humour, full of affection devoted, not blind, the volume cannot fail to make a deep impression on every reader, and to evoke in old boys memories full of poignant emotion. It is an unforgettable panorama of events and of men who made St. Paul's what the School is today.

Mechanically, the volume is admirable. The paper is excellent, the type selected is clear and good, the binding is dignified, the illustrations are worthy, the price is reasonable. Especially gratifying is its freedom from typographical blunders: careful reading has disclosed none. This happy result is due to the care of the publisher, an old boy, and the jealous affection of another old boy on whom fell the responsibility for the presswork and the proof-reading.

So much for the mechanical aspect of the book. Consideration of the deeper matters, the truthfulness of the pictures of the men who made the School and developed it in its seventy-eight years, the accuracy of its record of events or the growth of tradition, the story of its physical being, the origin of customs, reveals Mr. Pier's achievement as more remarkable.

From the intensely dramatic opening, with its brilliant and amazingly impressive association of the beginning institution with national events leading to the end of an epoch, the story, alive and vibrant always, moves forward serenely,humanly, surely, through the years of growth and struggle to recent years, still too close for final appraisal. No reader can miss the reality of that story. Across the pages moves a procession, not of shadows but of living men, who, largely unconscious that they were making history, lived everyday lives of humanity, toiled and rejoiced, inspired by a very deep common purpose, until, their labours done, with confidence in the value of the work, they handed on to their successors the torch lighted long before. Just when the point was reached at which the hope of something good became the conviction of the existence of that good need not concern us now; but, as the story of St. Paul’s advances, one feels that there was such a point, where her workers here recognized that they were carrying on an institution, not an experiment, the conviction which at the end of three-quarters of a century animates the work of today.

To one who has known the administrations of all four rectors, Mr. Pier’s story is enthralling. In view of the rich treasures offered by Mr. Pier, personal reminiscences are out of place. Still, it is certainly not amiss to say that the portrait he gives of Dr. Henry Coit is entirely convincing. He lives again in these pages, a figure, as sculptors would say, in the round, not in bas relief.

Of this portrait Mr. Pier has made a remarkable success. He attempts no psychological analysis of the man, his methods, or his power. Such analyses exist in the books by Mr. James Knox and Mr. Conover, in the brilliant essay by John Jay Chapman, in Owen Wister’s Atlantic Monthly article which, though somewhat unfortunate in places, is of lasting value. Mr. Pier presents a portrait, leaving the interpretation to his readers.

It is better so, since few men are more difficult to understand than Dr. Coit in his dealing with his boys and men. To those who did not work with him it is impossible to explain his influence on either group. Mr. Pier has put the matter perfectly in his statement that the boys regarded the first Rector as a being from another world into which they could not enter, moved by thoughts which they could not share, and as such a being accepted without serious difficulty his views, however inconsistent they might seem with the boys’ ideas of life.

One need not labour the question of Dr. Coit’s relations with his men. The fact that he inspired a group like those giants of old with unaltering devotion is proof enough of his power as a leader. Nor was this devotion blind idolatry: there was frank opposition to many of his opinions, men yielding only because they believed in him. He never used the common cant as to the consecration of the teacher’s task; that was taken for granted, as family affection is taken for granted or sportsmanship, and not talked about. His own life was all the proof needed of the meaning of the teacher’s life. But woe betide the man who fell short of his ideals!

He probably yielded at times to two of a headmaster’s temptations: one to ensure the carrying out of his wishes by personal oversight even to the point of meddling; the other, the retaining in the School a boy of poor influence in order to save that boy, often at grave risk to the community. In general, however, these weaknesses were compensated by his generous recognition of the good work of his subordinates on the one hand, and on the other by the skill with which he foresaw possible dangers to the tone of the School and evaded or overcame them.

It is quite proper that Mr. Pier should give much of his book to the administration of the first Rector. Wholly in his time was the School established. He gave it impetus and continuous life. Thirty years after his death Mrs. Charles Fairchild said that, except because of her immediate personal experience, she should not have believed that one man for years after his death could dominate so completely a great institution, as at the moment of her speaking Dr. Coit still dominated St. Paul's. She felt that, consciously or unconsciously, all actions and policies were referred to Dr. Coit's standards.

Mr. Pier's picture of the second Rector is equally alive. One feels again the breadth of Dr. Joseph Coit's culture, the warmth of his humanity, his kindliness to others, which in his latter days of ill-health painfully resulted in a weakened hold on the reins of office. Happily, he was supported by the group of devoted masters, trained through the earlier rectorship, so that the weakness of those last years harmed the School far less than one might think. It was indeed fortunate that Dr. Milnor Coit, the Knox brothers, Mr. Drumm, Bishop Parker, Mr. Foster, Mr. George Lay, Mr. Brinley were here to bear the brunt of the work. For them the work in hand was too pressing to give much chance for philosophizing about conditions; work must be done without pausing to analyze. Alas, that out of Dr. Coit's universal benevolence, as the result of his illness, his end should be clouded and sad.

Again, Mr. Pier brings out admirably the labours of Dr. Ferguson, who succeeded the half century of Coit direction. He accepted the rectorship at great personal sacrifice, giving up cheerfully a charming home in congenial surroundings with congenial work, complete freedom from the grind of pedagogic toil. He came on the explicit condition that he should remain but five years, and then leave, his work done, for a retirement which those five years of unremitting effort actually later made imperative. Those five years in some respects were more important than any five after the early days of the School. In them Dr. Ferguson accomplished three major achievements of immense value to the School. He cleared away the mists and obscurities of fifty years of a purely personal order of things, especially putting the finances of the place on a plain, open basis, so that all might know exactly how stood the affairs of the School; next, with infinite skill he bridged the gap between the old and the modern, conserving the best of the old, preparing it for the development of the new; finally, he secured for his successor a man fitted to carry on the School under modern conditions, to enlarge its usefulness in harmony with advanced ideas, yet basing new development upon the solid foundation of old traditions. At what personal cost Dr. Ferguson achieved those ends only men who were with him here through those toilsome years can ever understand. That he did not break under the strain of his work must be attributed to his undaunted courage, strong sense of duty, and deep religious faith. Truly, if Dr. Coit was the maker of St. Paul's, Henry Ferguson was its savior.

The perspective is too short for accurate appraisal of the past score of years. In his discussion of them Mr. Pier has discharged a delicate task with supreme tact and just appreciation. How much the School owes to Dr. Drury in all ways we all understand and can estimate for ourselves. That the progress of St. Paul's since 1911 is based on sound principle and aims at the highest standards we know. We may well be thankful for today, hopeful for the morrow, confident that, as we are still reaping the fruits of early devotion, so in turn by our own wise planting now we must ensure a bounteous harvest of good for the future.

In this survey of Mr. Pier's panorama one naturally keeps to the leaders, knowing that the rest of the army discharged its duty with equal devotion. One is forced, also, to omit the salt and spice of the author's humour, since it is for each reader to select and store away his favorite anecdotes. How appealing is the whole story, what a feast of pleasant things is spread for us, what quaintness of custom, what deliciously illogical hours and habits are shown, what nobility of character, what notable growth! Old boy and present boy, master and scholar, owe Mr. Pier a measureless debt of joyful gratitude for his book. We cannot pay that debt; nor would he suffer it to be paid. His affectionate tribute to St. Paul's is a gift for which he would be the last to ask a return.

Herein lies, one may believe, the explanation of the life history of the School. It commands the love of all, because it loves all.

The book is greatly enriched and its interest much enhanced by the Appendix, in which Mr. William W. Flint, Senior, gives us the narrative of the gradual growth of the School holdings of land. His work is eminently characteristic of the writer, infinitely painstaking, absolutely exact, shot through with pleasant humour. To the layman this notable "abstract of title" may seem a trifle too legal, and, therefore, dry reading; to one lawyer it seemed one of the best things in the book, almost thrilling, he said. Nevertheless, all should read the appendix to learn how the small holding of land in 1855, about 60 acres in all, has, by wise and protective purchase, grown to over 1500 acres in 1934, a noble estate, yet not too large for its purpose. Mr. Flint's reminiscences of old days at St. Paul's, embodied in the main text, are among the most delightful portions of the book. We are much obliged to him for his share in the work.

We may close with another remark of the friend quoted at the outset.

"It is one of the most stimulating books I have ever read. I recall no story of any institution, save possibly of a religious order, which is such an extraordinary record of absolute self-sacrifice from beginning to end. Not a person connected with School but gave himself and all of himself without any thought but the good of others. It tells of the most amazing group of men of whom I ever heard. In these times of anxious materialism the rector ought to make the reading of the book compulsory for every man in the School, especially the novices, whether old boys or not. Thus will they better absorb the spirit of the place."

Is it not possible here to find the secret of our St. Paul's: absolute self-sacrifice? Is it fanciful to think that in their recognition of Dr. Coit's and his successors' complete ignoring of themselves the boys found the explanation of difficulties in understanding problems, as well as the great inspiration for their own lives? Is it too much to believe that, even as in the past self-sacrifice has builded the School we know, so in the future St. Paul's will grow in power and usefulness according to the measure of self-sacrifice made by the boys and men here?

It is a noble book springing from the heart.

William Scudder (1881-1885).
THIRTIETH REUNION OF 1894
AT ANNIVERSARY

A DELIGHTFUL reunion at St. Paul's, viewing an impressive regatta of boat races at Long Pond. A perfect day, as usual, made this a most enjoyable and sociable afternoon with its joy or disappointment to the many parents on the shores, but to all another adventure in friendships.

From the boat races our '94 party drove in our own automobiles twenty miles to Franklin, New Hampshire, where Dick Sulloway and his charming wife served everyone a delicious supper in their fascinating home set high on the bank of the Merrimac River. That evening we renewed old times and got acquainted with each other's families.

Billy Cochran and his wife from Baltimore, Charlie Goodwin with his son (a Junior at Yale) and brother, S.P.S. '84, from Hartford, Connecticut, George Prescott Baker and his wife from Yarmouth, N. S., Art Emmons and his son at Harvard from Dover, Massachusetts, beside our cordial hosts, Dick and Mrs. Dick Sulloway, composed the '94 Reunion.

As we drove back to Concord in heavy thunder showers, we all agreed the Reunion was a great success and well worth the effort and time even in our busy lives. Our spirits were refreshed, our youth renewed, so that we left, grateful that our boyhood held years of the richness of the life of St. Paul's School.

ARTHUR B. EMMONS, '94.
IF there is any authority on that part of New York State which used to be so importantly threaded by the Erie Canal, it is Walter D. Edmonds ('16-'21) from whose first novel, “Rome Haul,” a current Broadway success, “The Farmer Takes A Wife,” derives.

At Harvard, where he was elected to the Advocate in his freshman year, Edmonds rose to be president of the board that perpetrated the notoriously funny parody of the Dial, a magazine to which he later made serious contributions. Other journals which have published his work are: Atlantic Monthly, Harper’s, Saturday Evening Post, Country Gentleman, Pictorial Review, American Magazine, McCall’s, Collier’s and The Forum.

Since “Rome Haul,” he has written two novels, “The Big Barn” and “Erie Water,” besides collecting a series of short stories into one volume, “ Mostly Canallers.” A brother of John B. Edmonds, a master at the School, he is married and has two children.

THE Princeton freshmen, with an edge in weight and a better passing game, defeated St. Paul’s, 3 to 2, at Madison Square Garden, December 21st. Foes of long standing, Princeton has won eleven games and St. Paul’s nine. There has been one tie over a stretch of twenty-one years. The Rector was the guest of honor, and tossed in the puck at the opening face-off.

The game had a new interest for the players, for a new trophy hung in the balance. It was an old hockey stick which belonged to Hobey Baker. At the end of the game it was presented to the Princeton freshmen by A. Thornton Baker, Hobey’s brother. The lighter St. Paul’s players went down frequently before their heavier adversaries, but they bounced off the ice quickly and were a continuous annoyance to Princeton’s team play. The Tigers scored a goal in each of the three periods, while St. Paul’s score came with a sensational rally in the final period.

As in previous years, the net proceeds of the game will be contributed to the St. Paul’s School Camp and Coit House. From preliminary estimates, the net profits of the 1934 hockey game will be considerably more than for several years, and it is hoped that it will be possible to increase substantially the annual donations of the Alumni Association to the Camp and Coit House.

The meeting was called to order by J. Frederick Byers, ’00, President of the Alumni Association. The roll call of the members of the Committee was dispensed with.

The President then read a letter of greeting from Dr. Drury, Rector of the School as follows:

“We who work at the School will be in spirit with those who work for the School tomorrow night. The School is so truly a joint undertaking that Alumni at a distance are sometimes as operative for its good as a master or a boy in this very spot. We feel the mysterious but actual power which comes from the old boys of the School. Not all School life is progress, not every day starts with a sense of power; every day has its problems, and some days their failure. But throughout these ups and downs friendship makes life easier, and the affectionate loyalty of all the men gathered about your table tomorrow night represents an influence that we can’t do without.

“Much as we rely on your alumni fund, much as it has actually helped tens, yes, scores of sons of old boys to carry on and complete their schooling; you know that our deepest sentiment is affection, pure and simple. And so I send for the School, and from the School, greetings and blessings to you all.”

This message from the Rector was deeply appreciated, in reply to which the Secretary was instructed to send the following telegram to Dr. Drury:

“Your most moving letter to our President is gratefully acknowledged and the Standing Committee of the Alumni Association sends you in return its affection, pure and simple, and its pledge of loyalty both now and for the years to come.”

The President then announced that a letter had been received from William Fellowes Morgan, ’76, retiring chairman of the Standing Committee, saying that he could not attend the meeting and tendering his resignation from the Standing Committee. Upon motion duly made, seconded, and unanimously carried, Mr. Morgan’s resignation was accepted with deepest regret. Thereupon, upon motion made by Mr. Stuart D. Preston, ’02, and seconded by John C. Jay, ’97, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

“For so long a time was William Fellowes Morgan, ’76, Chairman of the Standing Committee that, in the words of the lawyers, ‘the memory of man runneth not to the contrary." Among all the positions of honour which he has filled so capably,—as president of the Merchants' Association of New York, the Young Men's Christian Association of New York, the United States Golf Association, and as a trustee of Columbia University, Beirut College, and Wells College,—perhaps that of the Chairmanship of the Standing Committee was as near to his heart as any. With no reflections on his eminent successor, one's first feeling is that a Standing Committee Dinner without Mr. Morgan is like Hamlet without the ghost. He leaves with us on the Committee the honoured bearer of his name.

"BE IT RESOLVED, THEREFORE: That a vote of thanks be tendered to William Fellowes Morgan for his loyal and efficient service to the Standing Committee throughout the past years, and that we express to him our profound regrets on his resignation and our hope that he will be given many more years, full of abundant good health and of continued service to his community.

"ALSO RESOLVED: That this minute be spread on the records of the Standing Committee and that the Executive Secretary be directed to forward a copy thereof to Mr. Morgan."

Thereupon, upon motion made by John C. Jay, '97, and seconded by Samuel W. Morris, '90, and unanimously carried, Richard M. Hurd, '83, was elected chairman of the Standing Committee for the ensuing year. Upon motion duly made, seconded and carried, Clarence E. West, '97, was elected secretary.

Mr. Hurd thereupon took the chair to conduct the meeting.

The Chairman then announced that a vacancy existed in the membership of the Standing Committee and called for nominations, upon which Edward Starr, Jr., '18, was nominated. There being no further nominations, upon motion duly made, seconded and carried, Mr. Starr was elected a member of the Standing Committee to serve until the next Annual Meeting.

The Chairman then called upon Mr. West to read a memorial that had been prepared by Mr. Connett on the death of Albert Lawrence Smith, '08, during the reading of which everyone stood.

"WHEREAS, the members of the Executive Committee and of the Standing Committee of the Alumni Association of St. Paul's School have learned, with profound regret, of the death of their friend and fellow worker, Albert Lawrence Smith, and

"WHEREAS, as a boy at the School, from 1905 to 1908, and as an Alumnus he has reflected credit on his School, and

"WHEREAS, he has served his School and its Alumni Association as Form Agent for the Form of 1908 to the time of his death, and as a member of the Standing Committee of the Alumni Association, now therefore,

"BE IT RESOLVED, that the Executive Committee and the Standing Committee of the Alumni Association of St. Paul's School here record with sorrow the untimely passing of their associate and sincere friend, Albert Lawrence Smith, and, further, record their warm appreciation of his uniformity of devotion and his unselfish work and cooperation for the Association's and the School's best interests.

This memorial tribute to Mr. Smith was adopted by rising vote and the Secretary was instructed to send a copy to Mr. Smith's family.

William Hale Harkness, '18, Treasurer of the Alumni Association, then submitted his report for the period June 1, 1934 to November 30, 1934, as follows:

This $1,000 will be added by the Trustees to the annual gift of the Alumni Association to the School Fund when it is made this Fall.

Upon motion duly made, seconded and carried, the foregoing report was accepted and ordered placed on file.

John H. Stewart, '10, Chairman of the Alumni Fund Committee for 1934, then submitted his report as follows:

REPORT OF ALUMNI FUND COMMITTEE FOR 1934

As Chairman of the 1934 Alumni Fund Committee, it is my pleasure to report that as of today the 1934 Fund has received $11,761.91 from 1133 Alumni as regular contributors. In addition, the 25th Reunion Gift from the Sixth Form of 1909 (Archer Harman, Form Agent) amounts to $347.63 from 24 members of that Form, thus giving a grand total of $12,109.54 from 1159 Alumni. By the will of Rollin S. Saltus, 1888, the sum of $1,000 was left to St. Paul's School with the proviso that "the same be added to the Alumni Fund of the Class of 1888 for the year in which it is received by said School." This generous bequest, which brings our total to $13,109.54, was handled directly by the Treasurer of the School, Mr. Dickey, despite valiant efforts on the part of your Treasurer and Chairman to put it through the Alumni Fund books in the first instance. Fitting acknowledgement has been made to Mrs. Saltus by your Treasurer.

In the preliminary report of the Fund made at Anniversary, the deaths of certain Form Agents were recorded. Since that time, I regret to advise the death on August 22nd of George Cameron Beach, 1895, who had been the loyal and effective agent of his Form for many years.

Your Chairman proposes to suggest to the new Alumni Fund Committee the continuation of the Regional Director system, which was inaugurated this year, and which it is believed was sufficiently helpful to warrant a further trial.

The Fund could not possibly have had such small success as it has attained except for the sustained loyalty and cooperation which is evidenced by all associated with it. It is my privilege to record once more not only the splendid work of the Alumni Association office, but also the energetic and fruitful efforts of the Agents from oldest to youngest. We are fortunate in having them with us in the work of the Fund, and it is earnestly to be hoped that they all may be willing to continue to serve.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN H. STEWART, Chairman.

Upon motion by Carll Tucker, '00, duly seconded and unanimously carried, the thanks and appreciation of the Committee were extended to Mr. Stewart and all Form Agents for the splendid result obtained and the report was accepted and ordered placed on file.

Mr. Stewart, as Chairman of the Alumni Fund Committee and a member of the Executive Committee then reported that the Executive Committee in session earlier in the evening recommended that a gift be made to the School from the funds of the Alumni Association. Mr. Byers, Chairman of the Executive Committee, also expressed his approval of this recommendation; thereupon, on motion by Mr. Stewart, duly seconded by Mr. Morris, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

RESOLVED, by the Standing Committee of the Alumni Association of St.
Paul's School, in executive session, that the Treasurer of the Alumni Association be, and he hereby is, instructed to hand to the President, for transmittal, a check to the order of the School for Six Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($6,500) as a gift from the 1934 Alumni Fund of the Association, to which is to be added and considered as part of this gift the bequest of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000) of Rollin Sanford Saltus of the Form of 1888 which already has been received by the Treasurer of the School for this purpose, making a total gift of Seven Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($7,500):

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that copies of this resolution be forwarded by the President to the Rector of the School
President of the Board of Trustees
Clerk of the Board of Trustees, and to the Treasurer of the Board of Trustees and that it be included in the report of the 1934 Alumni Fund Committee, which is to be published in the next issue of the ALUMNI HORAE.

The President, Mr. Byers, then reported that arrangements had been completed for the Hockey Game between the School team and the Princeton Freshmen at Madison Square Garden on December 21st, 1934 and that Trowbridge Callaway, '01, had been appointed Chairman of the Committee to arrange and conduct the game. Mr. Callaway then reported that arrangements were well under way, that a satisfactory advance sale of tickets was coming in, and urged all members of the Standing Committee to make every possible effort to promote attendance.
The Chairman then called for a report upon the publication of the Alumni Horae and in the absence of the editor, Eugene V. Connett, 3d, '08, Mr. West stated that two issues had been published during the year and that the regular December number was in press and would be mailed as early as possible. After discussion regarding continued publication, upon motion duly made, seconded and carried, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

RESOLVED, that the Alumni Association of St. Paul’s School continue the regular publication of the Alumni Horae with three issues during 1935, unless in the opinion of the Executive Committee it should later be deemed advisable to publish only two issues.

Trowbridge Callaway, '01, Chairman of the Committee on nominations, then offered the names of the following to serve on the Executive Committee for the ensuing year:

J. Frederic Byers, '00, Chairman
Henry McC. Bangs, '02
George S. Brewster, '86
Eugene V. Connett, 3d, '08
William Hale Harkness, '18
Samuel W. Morris, '90
Stuart D. Preston, '02
Alvin F. Sortwell, '10
John H. Stewart, '10
Carl T. Tucker, '00
Clarence E. West, '97, Secretary

There being no further nominations, on motion duly made and seconded the foregoing were unanimously elected as members of the Executive Committee for the ensuing year.

Mr. Stewart then advised the meeting that the will of Rollin Sanford Saltus, '88, contained a bequest of $1,000 to the Alumni Fund. Thereupon, upon motion duly made and seconded, the following resolution prepared by Charles D. Hart, '88, was unanimously adopted:

BE IT RESOLVED, that the Standing Committee of the Alumni Association of St. Paul’s School at its stated meeting held December 11th, 1934, learn with gratitude of the generous legacy of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000) of the late Rollin Sanford Saltus of the Form of 1888, to become part of the gift of his Form to the Alumni Fund for 1934. It feels that this is a further proof of his love and devotion to the School;

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that a copy of the above resolution be sent to Mrs. Saltus and to his family.

The President, Mr. Byers, then resumed the chair to conduct the remainder of the meeting.

The President then appointed an Alumni Fund Committee to serve for the year 1935 consisting of the following:
John H. Stewart, '10, Chairman

George S. Brewster, '86
Harry Parsons Cross, '92
Carll Tucker, '00
Robert H. Cox, '01

Leonard Sullivan, '04
William Hale Harkness, '18
Reeve Schley, Jr., '27
Randal Morgan, '30

The President then appointed the Alumni Horae Committee to serve for the ensuing year as follows:

Eugene V. Connett, 3d, '08, Editor
Robert Cresswell, '15
Arthur S. Pier, '90
The President then appointed the Anniversary Committee for 1935 as follows:

Edward D. Toland, '04, Chairman
Jeremiah S. Black, '22
Howell P. Campbell, '07
Henry B. Cannon, Jr., '24
John B. Edmonds, '19

Stuart D. Preston, '02
Henry A. Bull, '22
Abbot Treadwell, '81
L. Caspar Wistar, '28
Craig Wylie, '26

The President then appointed Willard Scudder, '85, as Chairman of the Committee on Honorary Members with power to select his committee.

The President then called upon Frederick B. Adams, '96, Chairman of the Committee on Publication of the School History, for a report. After reviewing the circumstances leading up to the writing and publication of the History, Mr. Adams then presented the following report:

At your meeting a year ago a committee was appointed to supervise the publication of the History of St. Paul's School. The committee was composed of Mr. Pier, author of the book, Mr. Harkness, Mr. Scudder and myself as Chairman. I beg leave, as a formal matter, to report that the book has been published. The circumstances of its publication by Scribner's and the arrangements generously made by that publishing house which afforded an opportunity to the Alumni Association to reimburse itself for the expenditures made in connection with the writing of the book, have been reported to you and to the Executive Committee and need not be further outlined here.

Suffice it is to say that as a result of these arrangements a total of 690 subscriptions to the volume have been turned in to date through sales at the School or through the efforts of Mr. West's office here and this warrants the expectation that the expenses of the Association in sponsoring the volume will be fully repaid.

I believe that the Publication Committee has now fulfilled the functions for which it was created and it now begs to be discharged.

Respectfully submitted,

Frederick B. Adams, '96, Chairman.
Upon motion duly made, seconded and unanimously carried, the foregoing report was accepted and the committee discharged with thanks.

Mr. Jay then expressed for the Alumni Association its sincere thanks and appreciation to Mr. Adams and his Committee for carrying through to its completion the publication of the splendid History of the School that is now an actuality. Whereupon, upon motion by Mr. Jay, duly seconded, a resolution to this effect was unanimously adopted.

Mr. Adams then spoke with enthusiastic appreciation of the great amount of research, labor and devotion connected with the writing of the History by Arthur S. Pier, ’90, the editor, and his associates of the Editorial Committee. He then offered the following resolution prepared by Willard Scudder, ’85, which upon motion duly made and seconded, was unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, The Alumni Association of St. Paul’s School wishes to put on record its grateful acknowledgement of the labours of Arthur Stanwood Pier (1887-1891) in writing the history, ST. PAUL’S SCHOOL, 1855-1934:

BE IT RESOLVED, That the following expression of our thanks be, and hereby is, adopted; that it be spread upon the Minutes of the Standing Committee; that a copy be sent to Mr. Pier by the Executive Secretary of the Association:

In his History of St. Paul’s School Arthur Stanwood Pier (1887-1891) has produced a book of notable excellence. It is written in a style of exceptional grace and charm; it is intensely dramatic and interesting; it preserves in lasting form many striking anecdotes of early days, valuable accounts of the origin of St. Paul’s traditions; its vivid pictures make old days alive again; it paints with singular authority and justice remarkable portraits of rectors and masters; it presents with great skill and humour the atmosphere of former days and of today; it is accurate in detail, broadly human in generalization; it is deeply imbued with the spirit of the seventy-eight years of the School’s life; it has an irresistible appeal to pride in the School, to affection for it, to effort for its well-being.

As a tribute to St. Paul’s the volume is remarkable, as a proof of Mr. Pier’s ability it is notable. We feel that, although it is quite impossible adequately to thank Mr. Pier for what is obviously a labour of love, we nevertheless wish to record our thanks to him for his noble memorial of St. Paul’s School.

In concluding the meeting Mr. Byers then called upon W. Strother Jones, ’77, former president of the Alumni Association, and upon Reeve Schley, ’99, former president of the Alumni Association and President of the Board of Trustees of the School, both of whom responded in a most happy and enjoyable vein. Mr. Schley stated that the annual gifts from the Alumni Association to the School in recent years had been used entirely in aiding sons and relatives of St. Paul’s Alumni to attend the School who otherwise would have been unable to do so and that the gift authorized at this meeting would be used for the same purpose.

After the singing of “Salve Mater,” the meeting ADJOURNED.

'70—The late F. Marion Crawford is the subject of another recently published book: “Roman Spring: Memoirs,” by Mrs. Winthrop Chanler, his sister. Mrs. Chanler spent her life going places and meeting people and she tells delightful stories in addition to giving a new viewpoint on her brother’s personality.

'76—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Parish celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage at their New York residence on December 13th, 1934, entertaining at dinner for Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who is Mrs. Parish’s god-daughter. President and Mrs. Roosevelt were married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Parish on St. Patrick’s day, 1905.

'86—On December 3rd the Henry L. Gantt Gold Medal of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers was awarded to Horace Bushnell Cheney “for distinguished achievement in industrial management as a service to the community.”

'91—Dr. Eugene Hillhouse Pool has just been elected President of the New York Academy of Medicine for a two-year term.

'96—Among the passengers on board the “Morro Castle” at the time of her destruction were Dr. Gouverneur Morris Phelps, ’96, and his son G. M. Phelps, Jr., ’27. Dr. and Mrs. Phelps escaped in one of the rescue boats; and his son, after six hours of clinging to a coil of rope and much danger, was finally brought ashore. He gave a most picturesque story of his experiences to the newspapers.

'01—LeRoy King has recently been appointed Rhode Island State Director for the Federal Housing Commission.

'03—The Harvard University Press has published a volume by Prof. Samuel Eliot Morison: The Founding of Harvard College, which is the story of the background and founding of Harvard College and its history before the granting of the charter in 1650.

'05—Word comes that Queen Mary of England will be godmother to the infant daughter of Lord Fermoy and Lady Fermoy, who was Miss Gill, daughter of Col. and Mrs. W. S. Gill of Dalhebity, Bieldside, Aberdeenshire, Scotland.

'08—The Sportsman for October publishes an article on “Fishing a Trout Stream” by Eugene V. Connett, 3d, the well known authority. The illustrations are remarkably good.

'08—Governor John C. Winant of New Hampshire came into national prominence again for his work in settling the recent textile strike. He was appointed Chairman of the Board of Mediators by President Roosevelt. They say that if new blood prevails in 1936, he will be the Republican presidential nominee.

'09—Rudolph S. Rauch, a director of B. F. Goodrich Co., has been named a permanent member of the NRA Industrial Advisory Board. William P. Witherow, '05, President of the Steel Products Co., Pittsburgh, is also a member and DeLancey Kountze, '95, Chairman of the Board of De Voe & Reynolds Co. is a rotating member of the Board.

'13—A resolution proposing that the president of the New York Curb Exchange be made a full-time salaried executive will be offered at the next meeting of the Board of Governors. If it passes, the new position will be offered to E. Burd Grubb, present head of the Exchange, at a very substantial salary.

'14—John LaValle, the famous portrait painter, is one of a committee of three appointed by the Boston American to be judges in its contest to select the ten best dressed women in Boston.

'14—Alfred Putnam has been elected a member of the Chicago Board of Trade.

'15—Lloyd Kirkham Garrison was until recently Chairman of the Labor Relations Board. He was appointed to this post from his position as acting dean of the Law School of Wisconsin University, to which we understand that he has now returned.

'16—Joseph Clark Baldwin, 3d, successful candidate for the New York State Senate, was thus endorsed by the New York World-Telegram: “Mr. Baldwin, Republican-Fusion. In five years as Alderman, four of them as minority leader, Mr. Baldwin established himself as a competent, conscientious, intelligent thorn in the side of Tammany Hall, equally apt as a minority of one or as a leader of a group. World War veteran, former newspaper man, insurance broker, 37. Moving spirit in agitation which resulted in Seabury investigations. Has exposed much Tammany graft and racketeering. One of two Senatorial candidates for whom Citizens Union is making active fight. The district was Republican until the last election, when resentment against the deal by which Senator Hofstadter became a Supreme Court Justice enabled a Democrat to win.”

'18—John Codman, noted Beacon Hill (Boston) real estate expert, is extending his efforts to secure a reasonable substitute for excessive taxation and is also interested in the campaign for the preservation of the historic homes on Beacon Hill. A number of houses still standing there were designed by Bulfinch, the first great American architect.

'24—Although Winston Guest was defeated in his race for the New York State Senate by his Tammany opponent, he rolled up a remarkably large vote for an initial political effort. The New York World-Telegram endorsed him as follows: “Mr. Guest, Republican-Fusion. International polo star, 28, descendant of family long sincerely interested in politics and public service, nephew of Lady Nancy Astor and second cousin of Winston Churchill, English statesman. Served as $1-a-year legal adviser to Fusion minority in Board of Aldermen. Energetic, independent, public spirited, liberal. Decidedly not the usual type of rich man in politics. Heartily endorsed by Citizens Union. His opponent is one of the most undesirable of the Tammany members—a typical, genial, old-school ward worker, who becomes energetic only when Tammany’s interests are threatened or more patronage is in sight.”
'25 — The Rev. Francis Augustus Drake was ordained minister of the Congregational Church in Massachusetts, at North Hadley, Mass. on May 21, 1934, and has been duly installed as minister of the Second Congregational Church in that town.

'28—John McLane Clark has ceased to publish The New Canaan Gazette and is now associated with The Washington Post.

'28—George Caspar Homans has recently published in collaboration with Charles P. Curtis, Jr. a volume entitled An Introduction to Pareto. He has received a University Fellowship at Harvard, where he is doing advanced work.
