Dear Alumni:

You remember, of course, what the School is like in early April: spongy turf that we try to keep the boys from plowing across until it dries up a little; chilly air but not wintry or bitter; the School Pond with areas of ice still holding on valiantly but shrinking day by day, and now and then a hardy robin to make it look as though Spring has really come. Such is the usual scene, and it holds pretty well for this April, too, though by great luck the frost is already out of the ground enough to let the baseball players operate on the Lower Grounds, albeit without cleats, and there is plenty of open water on the Pond.

This afternoon, half a dozen squads of boys are at work on various parts of the School grounds. Some are raking lawns and sweeping the road; others are at Long Pond, washing shells and getting them ready for the season; and still others are at the Power House, shovelling coal. As soon as the weather warms up enough, a group of boys will go to work painting the Lower School Boathouse. In short, our Work Program has got under way in vigorous fashion, with Mr. Clark still in charge.

The Spring Term opened on a somber note owing to the death during the holidays of Mr. Thomas W. Nazro who for fifteen years has been a tower of strength at St. Paul’s. His loss is a heavy blow to us all, for no man was more beloved than he or did more to make the School a happy place. In the classroom, on the football field, as Head of the New Upper, and in his most recent position as Director of Admissions, Tom Nazro served St. Paul’s loyally and with eminent success. His death leaves gaps that will be hard to fill, and deep sadness in the hearts of his many friends.

The College Examinations lie behind us, though the results are still unrevealed, and ahead looms the pleasant prospect of a Spring Dance; that is, if the Fifth and Sixth Forms decide that they want one. This is in fact a very cavalier group when it comes to dances; they blow hot and cold on the subject, and no one can be sure whether or not a dance will be held until the girls actually arrive. Then it is too late to change their minds and the boys go through with it manfully. Their present feeling is on the whole pro, but there seems to be some uncertainty as to the date, and it would be no surprise if, amid the manifold activities of the term, the project were forgotten altogether! Such is youth. God grant that it may be given them long to remain equally light hearted.

Yours sincerely,

HENRY C. KITTREDGE
Rector

THE SCHOOL IN ACTION

The purpose of St. Paul's is to produce good citizens. (Pelican, December 6, 1950)

Now, at the end of March, bluebirds and robins are back and red-winged blackbirds have returned to Big Turkey and the still ice-locked Everglades. The spring comes, slowly, up this way. One looks ahead to bright, windy April days, to flurries of snow, to warm showers and heat and thunderstorms; one looks back upon a memorable winter term.

This was the winter in which demerits were abolished for the Fifth and Sixth Forms, in acknowledgment and confirmation of a change already largely effected in practice. Demerits, small, symbolic punishments surviving from an age that was secure and prim, were thought out of place, unnecessary or insufficient, in the training of older boys in times like these. Older boys, in the main, should be depended on, without nagging, to check and correct their own conduct; whereas, continued evidence of irresponsible immaturity must be viewed and treated in future with more seriousness than it could be in the past. So far there is reason to believe that the Fifth and Sixth Forms have accepted this step as it was hoped they would, as a recognition of the part they have to play and as an expression of confidence in their capacity to play it well.

This was the winter, too, in which, after more than a year of thought and discussion, an outside boat-race was determined on for the Halcyon and Shattuck first crews. They will row this year in the regatta on Lake Quinsigamond at Worcester, Massachusetts, the Saturday before Anniversary. Not all were sure that this was a wise departure from our old rowing policy, but all are united in determination to make the venture a success.

All this winter, work continued on the new Assembly Hall and on the new Laboratory. And at the end of the term, before these memorials to men killed in the Second World War were yet finished, the School learned that still another of its Alumni had given his life in defense of freedom. His tragic death in Korea poignantly illustrates for us what these times mean to young men the world over. Nick Davis was a boy here ten years ago. He left the School in his Fifth Form year, in 1941, entered the Army and served as forward observer and radio operator with the Field Artillery of the 95th Division in Northern France, the Rhineland and Central Europe. Discharged in 1945, he went into business, but his time of peace and normal life was not long.

The winter term had ended and the vacation was half over when here at the School on March 26th occurred the sudden, tragic death of Thomas Nazro. He was a man of high standards, a hard worker, unsparing of his seemingly indestructible strength, merry and entertaining in times of relaxation, tender-heartedly understanding of all kinds of weakness and trouble, a warm-hearted, gallant friend. Men as fine as he are hard to find in this or any other walk of life.

Teacher of history, coach at Long Pond and on the Lower Grounds, housemaster at the New Upper, then, since September, Director of Admissions, he had been here since 1935, except for the war years when he was Executive Officer and Commanding Officer aboard Destroyer Escorts in the Atlantic and in the Mediterranean.

Truly, this was a memorable winter. Are its events unrelated? No, for we are living in a convulsed world, from which our small School is not separated, not apart. These are days of anxiety and strain, when youth is impatient of restriction and old ways, eager to enjoy while yet there is time, athirst for action and for truth. "... in a world in which America is striving to defend democracy, we must," said a Pelican editorial last October, "be sure to teach a thinking education." These are days when the best give all they have, and none survives unindebted.
Read the Horae Scholasticae and the Pelican, not for news only of the School to-day but of the world to-morrow. The boys are not mature yet; sometimes not as mature as they should be for their age. But more than in past times, they tackle hard subjects and not infrequently they speak more wisely, with more penetration, than they themselves can know. Let the Horae Scholasticae of February 10th, the day after Nick Davis died in Korea, speak for them, and to us, all: "... there comes a point when checking up on those who have obligations is impractical. At this point, the individual’s sense of responsibility must take over. This is true of any society ... a sense of responsibility is, above all, important to those being trained for this uncertain world."

- Baltimore: Philip H. Watts, '27
- Boston: Samuel H. Wolcott, '29
- Chicago: John P. Wilson, Jr., '24
- Cincinnati: O. DeG. Vanderbilt, 3rd, '33

The duties of these men are indicated in the letter of appointment:

"It has been decided to appoint a chairman in each of a number of cities, not previously organized, who would represent St. Paul's in his part of the country and who could be called upon for advice and guidance as needed.

"The specific functions of the chairman will be to arrange meetings for representatives of the School when they visit his city and, between such meetings, to act as a clearing house for information between the School and his locality, having constantly in mind the School’s objective — to get the best material in the region to become St. Paul’s boys."

The letters of acceptance written by the new chairmen without exception evidenced their enthusiasm for the opportunity to work in behalf of St. Paul’s in their respective localities.

Philadelphia and Pittsburgh have active alumni organizations of long standing. Officers are:

Philadelphia
- William Foulke, '30, President
- John R. Clark, '34, Vice-Pres.

ANNIVERSARY this year will be on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, June 1, 2 and 3. Alumni are requested to send their acceptances to the School's invitation as promptly as possible. As accommodations at the School during Anniversary are limited, a considerable amount of planning in advance is necessary to provide for the Alumni. The School does not make reservations at hotels or boarding houses. Alumni who intend to bring their wives, children or other members of their families should make their arrangements independently. Coolidge M. Chapin, '35, is in general charge of Anniversary.

The forms holding reunions this year, with their chairmen or committees, are:

DEDICATION OF NEW BUILDING

A special feature of Anniversary this year will be the dedication of the new Memorial Auditorium. This ceremony will be held on Saturday, June 2, at noon, prior to the annual meeting of the Alumni Association. It is expected that the Alumni luncheon will be served on the terrace of the new Auditorium, after the meeting.

THE 1951 ALUMNI FUND

Last year this report was written at the end of March and at that time we were a little behind, both in contributions and in the amount of money received. It so happens that we are at this writing 42 contributions and $617.33 behind in comparison with the corresponding date last year. This may sound a little discouraging but it is very hard to determine final results at this date. We can say, however, that the average gift so far is larger than the average gift on the same date last year. Some agents have not yet sent out their first letter and we hope that as soon as all agents get started results will improve. One agent who has not yet started his work facetiously writes: "I have been doing some work for the Red Cross here in Boston, and, as I am easily confused in such matters, I feared that I might be urging my classmates to give money and blood for a cause, and at the same time asking some disinterested industrialists here to pray for the Peace of Jerusalem!"

The School definitely needs your support, so please give as generously as you can. St. Paul's has very loyal Alumni and they can show this through their contributions to the Annual Alumni Fund. Although this fund does not officially close until the fall, we should like to have as good a showing as possible for the report which will be made at Anniversary.

Following is a list of the Form Agents with their addresses and the number of contributions and the amount received from each form as of April 20, 1951:

†25th Anniversary Fund of 1926—Scholarship Fund in Memory of Lawrence W. Dickey.

ALBERT FRANCKE, JR., '20, Chairman
NEW AND RETIRING TREASURERS OF THE CORPORATION

FOLLOWING the resignation of Mr. Charles D. Dickey as Treasurer of St. Paul's School, the Trustees placed the following minute upon the record of their proceedings; it sums up the nature of Mr. Dickey's significant contribution and service:

The Trustees desire to record their appreciation of the extraordinary service rendered by Charles D. Dickey as Treasurer of St. Paul's School, who retires after twenty-five years.

When Mr. Dickey became Treasurer, the Endowment Funds of the School were approximately $2,347,000 and the School had incurred an Operating Deficit during the previous year of approximately $39,000. As he retires as Treasurer, the Endowment Funds amount to more than $6,690,000. Despite the fact that two intervening depressions of world-wide scope occurred during his service, the portfolio today shows a substantial gain in the market value of the securities over the book value; and during all that period the yield from the securities has produced an income much in excess of that returned by other endowment funds of a similar character. This result has been due to Mr. Dickey's financial ability and leadership.

As Treasurer he conserved the assets of the School with prudence; but any sound plan to increase the efficiency of the plant or the development of wider spheres of education received his sympathetic and hearty support, and more importantly the production of the funds required.

In spite of innumerable demands on his time in his active business career, he had ever been a faithful attendant at meetings of the Board and his judgment on problems of every nature pertaining to the School has been eagerly sought. His loyalty and devotion to the School, which induces him to remain on the Board, gives to its members, who hold him in such deep affection, a sense of security upon which they will continue to rely for many years to come.

HENRY A. LAUGHLIN
President

JOHN R. MCLANE
Clerk

Thomas Rodd, '31, has been elected Mr. Dickey's successor. Mr. Rodd, son of the late Thomas Rodd, Jr., '03 graduated from Yale in 1935; he has been with J. P. Morgan and Co., Inc. since that time and is now treasurer of the company. He married Wendy Morgan, daughter of William Fellowes Morgan, Jr., '06, and granddaughter of William Fellowes Morgan, '76, and of John Henry Rathbone, '80, both deceased. Mr. Rodd has three sons, Fellowes Morgan Rodd, 2nd, Thomas Rodd, Jr., and Carey Rathbone Rodd.

During the war, Mr. Rodd was in the U. S. Marine Corps reserve, rising from 1st Lieutenant to Captain. In the consolidation of the Bismarck Archipelago and the liberation of the Philippines he was a fighter director of the 1st Marine Air Wing.

FINANCIAL PICTURE AT ST. PAUL'S SCHOOL

(In response to many requests for an article on this subject, the following has been prepared by a member of the Corporation.)

With the receipt last summer of approximately $1,500,000 from the Estate of Edward S. Harkness, '93, and the recent announcement in the newspapers that St. Paul's School would receive approximately $2,000,000 from the Estate of the late Mrs. Wilks, there has quite naturally arisen in the minds of many people a question as to what the trustees are planning to do with these new funds. In the first place, there is a great difference between these two legacies. The Harkness money has been received and invested and the income is accruing to the School. The Wilks money has not been received and there may be considerable delay and some doubt as to its eventual receipt due to the fact that the School is advised that the will is being contested by a member of the family. For the moment, therefore, we cannot consider the Wilks bequest from any point of view, except that of a most pleasant surprise which we hope to receive at some future date.

Generally speaking the financial position of St. Paul's School is in good shape. This is due primarily to the position which the trustees have taken over a period of years of operating on a balanced budget and of insisting on all possible administrative economies to bring this about. In the course of the last three years economies of operation have been introduced which have brought about a saving of over $75,000 a year. This has been made possible largely by the boys' work program, and by generally more efficient management. All reports indicate that the boys and masters have enthusiastically cooperated in bringing about these economies. There has been no curtailment in the teaching end — either in the number of masters or their salaries and there is none contemplated. In fact as mentioned below the salaries of all the faculty have recently been raised. Furthermore the masters retirement plan appears to be more liberal than that of any other school.

As a result of these efforts the tuition which has stood at $1,600 per annum since 1947 has remained unchanged. During the intervening period the tuition of most comparable schools in the east (with the exception of Andover and Exeter which charge $1,400) has been gradually moving up until today they appear to range from a low of $1,750 to a high of $2,000. The Trustees hope to be able to keep the tuition at this $1,600 figure and also to continue to provide scholarship aid, averaging 50% of this tuition fee, to about 85 boys. The annual gifts from the Alumni Fund have played a very considerable part in making these scholarships available year in and year out to almost 20% of the boys in the School.

There is no need to dwell on the increase in prices which has taken place since 1947 when the tuition was fixed at $1,600. For instance in the year 1945-46 the cost of heating and lighting the School was approximately $76,000 whereas this year it will run approximately $90,000. Other items have increased proportionately particularly during the current school year. A general increase in faculty salaries of 10% was effected January 1st, 1951. In addition to this, reclassification has been made and a pay increase given to other wage and salary earners. Social Security has been introduced for both faculty and others. The increased cost on an annual basis resulting from these items, all of which have been voted since October, amounts to approximately $48,000. This represents the income at 4% on $1,200,000 or 80% of the Harkness bequest. So reverting to the question “What do the trustees propose to do with this additional income?” the answer becomes fairly apparent. The primary objective of the trustees is to run St. Paul's as a first-class school with a well-paid faculty for the lowest possible tuition fee. Comparative statistics indicate that the tuition fee of $1,600 is clearly on the low side; that the faculty salaries, after the 10% increase given in January, rank either second or third on a per boy basis among all the schools figured; and such data as has been obtained from the colleges indicate that the boys have been doing a good job both in their entrance examinations and in their scholastic standing in the colleges.

So much for what has been done. As to the future it must be assumed that costs will continue to rise and it is quite apparent that a considerable amount of money must be spent on the plant of the School over and above normal maintenance charges. The cost of these items has increased rapidly in recent years. For example, a new turbine is required for the power house, the cost of which a few years ago was estimated at $30,000 but which will probably cost $40,000 to $45,000 today. The Middle School is badly in need of renovating, if not rebuilding, and there are many other important and expensive jobs to be done. Therefore, the trustees have determined that, to the extent that all of the income from new funds is not required to meet further unavoidable increases in current expenses, any excess will be put aside from year to year to provide funds from which these vital expenditures can be made.

All of this leads to the conclusion that St. Paul's is indeed fortunate in its Endowment Funds standing as they do today at roughly $7,000,000, but it is clear that the years which lie ahead will probably require all of the income from these and a good deal more, as well as a lot of hard work by the faculty and boys and the continued support of the Alumni to make both ends meet and to keep the school going forward.

NEW YORK CHURCH SERVICE

The Annual St. Paul's School Church Service in New York was held at St. Bartholomew's Church, Park Avenue and 51st Street, on Sunday afternoon, April 8th. The Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes, Jr., '22, who has been Rector of St. Bartholomew's since November, conducted the service and Mr. Kittredge made the address. The gathering of Alumni and their families and friends was one of the largest in recent years. As is usual on these occasions, the choir sang Mr. Knox's hymns and his anthem, "O Pray for the Peace of Jerusalem." Mr. Stokes announced that the offering at the service would be presented to the St. Paul's School Camp for underprivileged boys at Danbury, N. H.

Mr. Kittredge's address was impressive and timely. He has very kindly given us the following condensation of it which we are glad to publish for the benefit of those who were not able to attend:

"They were in great fear where no fear was." (Psalm 53)

This afternoon I am going to talk to you about one or two aspects of our lives that don't satisfy us and suggest what we may do to improve them.

Let each of us look back along the course of his life and let his memory come to rest on two periods in it: School and College. If you went to a Church boarding school, you had courses in Sacred Studies; if you went to a boarding school where the chapel was not the center, you still had some instruction in the Christian religion; and if you went to a day school, (aside from what your family may have done at home) you went to Sunday school for an hour once a week. You had at least some idea that religion was important.

Then you went to college and plunged happily into activities of various kinds. You grew and expanded; new horizons stretched before you, but how seldom in all the studying and all the lectures were you reminded of the word of God: the Ten Commandments, the Sermon on the Mount, the Psalms of David? Or what encouragement was there, beyond the still small voice of your own conscience, to go to church when Sunday morning came round?

And here lies the most serious indictment against our otherwise admirable universities and colleges. They receive boys who, for all the imperfections of their religious education at school, have at least been taught that it is a matter of some consequence, and at best have had a sound course in the Bible, the History of our Church, and the teachings of Jesus. They find teachers who are specialists and nothing more. If it occurs to them that faith in God is inherent in every part of life and in every subject in the curriculum, few of them make it evident. Thus most of us reach maturity and begin our life's work in a state of virtual godlessness, and the blame rests very largely with the colleges.

One result of this woeful gap in our education is an unworthy kind of timidity, which permeates our own generation and the generation that is following in our wake. If such a thing as a watchword could be found today amid the maze of conflicting purposes and the welter of cross currents in which we are struggling, it would be a cry for security. Security has become our God, and we walk warily with prudence and caution as our guides. We have forgotten, if we ever really knew it, that life can hold no terrors for those who are firm in the faith, bolstered by the unalterable conviction that Almighty God is at their right hand.

This prevailing godlessness, which turns individuals into hovering temporizers, timid and prudent and dull, is still more plainly manifest in the behaviour of our nation. God in His wisdom has at various perilous moments in the affairs of the world, called various nations to serve His will and carry out His purposes for mankind. Whether they knew it or not, the Athenians served Him at Marathon; in our own day France and England, one after the other, have been called to maintain our freedom, and now the call has come to us, loud and clear — because our friends abroad are poor and exhausted while we are rich and strong. In the face of this clear summons, which of us can take pride in the behaviour of our country? We are called to the leading position in a distracted world, and the responsibility frightens us; some even want to hide at home, leaving our allies to their fate — while we trust to two oceans for shelter. It may be true (goodness knows we hear it often enough) that in these days no one can win a war. So be it; but the converse is certainly false; it is surely not true that no one can lose a war.

Our country in this critical period of the world’s history (all the more critical because it is so prolonged) presents, in one way, a characteristic picture, for we have always been given to extremes. But never before in our history have we been so far gone in fear. And unreasonable fear. Consider this nation for a moment: we are big, rich, strong in manpower, unsurpassed in the production of the machinery of war; unsurpassed, too, in the quality of the individual soldier or sailor or flyer; men who are brave, vigorous, nervous, intelligent, and above all resourceful. No enemy is at our gates or across our border — he is thousands of miles away, and he, too, is certainly afraid.

But when we examine it closely and thoughtfully, the fear which now distracts us is, as has been said, by no means chiefly fear of Russia. What distracts us quite as much is fear of the unknown — the strange new duties that we have been called upon to undertake, the heavy and complex responsibility that has been very properly laid at our door. We say with Hamlet

The time is out of joint — o cursed spite
That ever I was born to set it right.

The combination of being afraid that we shall have to fight Russia and of being bewildered by our new role as leader in a disillusioned and distracted world has proved too much for our nerves; we have become temporizers, uncertain of our course because we are afraid to look squarely at our goal.

Like all men in trouble, we cry for a leader — a man who is calm and wise and strong — one who will guide us; who will tell us what to do. And our training has been such that it has hardly occurred to us that Almighty God is the surest guide in time of trouble. If our colleges had done their duty by us, and included instruction in the Christian faith as an integral part of other subjects, we should not now be seeking a leader in vain.

Happily, though, there is always time; education is not necessary when it comes to getting the ear of our Heavenly Father, nor is there any doubt as to what He would have us do. He has put us into the world with the ability to work out our own salvation, albeit, through our weakness and blindness, we have often done it through the hatred and blood and sin of war. But He does not stand aloof and watch us unperturbed. He is eager to help us if we will ask Him to guide us when we know not where the true way lies. He sees, as we see, that we have not all reached the same level of enlightenment. Some there are who would still fight for power, some to whom domination is sweet and the give and take between political parties in democracies seems weakness and folly. When such a nation threatens the peace of the world, it is necessary and right for the strongest among the children of light to prevent it by making the rest of the world so strong that no aggressor will dare to attack.

If God were to intervene directly — if our Heavenly Father were Himself to take charge of the troubled affairs of this world, He would, I suppose, in an instant, even in the twinkling of an eye, change the hearts and open the eyes of those who still walk in darkness.

But that is not His way. God works through us, and, frail children of dust that we are, we know only strength as a means of protecting our freedom and the freedom of those who believe with us that without it, the purpose of life is gone.

I believe this to be the Will of God, because I believe that there is nothing that grieves Him so deeply as war and He knows that so far we have found no wiser way of preventing it.

How long then shall we go limping between the two sides? Let each of us forthwith regard himself as an agent of Almighty God in helping to bring His will to pass in this wayward world; and let us have faith that this great end can be achieved. Then shall we have done with fear and vacillation. Then shall we know the high duty to which we are called and shall know ourselves equal to it.

CORRECTION

From the list of “New Boys Who Are Sons or Grandsons of Alumni,” sent down from School last fall for inclusion in the last issue of the Alumni Horae, the name of Thomas Claytor of the Second Form was inadvertently omitted. We think he deserves special mention, anyway, because of his numerous S.P.S. connections. Following the usual form, the record is as follows:

Second Form — Claytor, Thomas — Great Grandson (S. W. Ingersoll, '70)
- Grandson (E. Ingersoll, '02)
- Charles E. Ingersoll, '79
- Harry Ingersoll, '08
- R. Sturgis Ingersoll, '10
- C. Jared Ingersoll, '13
- John H. W. Ingersoll, '18
- Warren Ingersoll, '27
- Robert S. Ingersoll, Jr., '34
- C. Jared Ingersoll, Jr., '42
- Also numerous uncles and cousins:
Many of the Alumni of today remember Charles Hart as a Trustee of St. Paul's for almost a quarter of a century and as a former President of the Alumni Association, but those of us who were at School with him have vivid memories of his dynamic personality, his keen sense of humor and his charm of manner. To all of us he was known as a most loyal and devoted son of St. Paul's.

Charles D. Hart died on February 14th at his home in Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, in the seventy-ninth year of his age. He had been ill for the past four years. He was unmarried and lived with his sister, Miss Mary M. Hart, who survives him, together with a brother, William H. Hart, '85, of Ambler, Pa. A large number of members of the Hart family and connections have attended St. Paul's.

He was at St. Paul's for four years, finishing with the Form of 1888. He then entered Princeton and was graduated with the class of 1892. He was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania Medical School in 1897 with the degree of M.D.

Known, nationally, as a leader in the Boy Scout Movement and as an associate of many educational, philanthropic and charitable institutions, his life work was largely devoted to the betterment of conditions in prisons, asylums and other state institutions. He was active on the staffs of the Pennsylvania Hospital, the Pennsylvania Institute for the Blind and the School for the Deaf. His civic activities included chairmanship of several Red Cross drives, membership on the Committee of Public Safety and service on the Board of Directors of the Philadelphia Orchestra.

Hart, for more than twenty years after leaving school, had never once returned, but suddenly, about 1910, he became greatly interested in his old School.

It was in 1910 that the writer of this sketch, while Secretary of the Association, began to organize the forms by appointing a secretary for each one. Up to that time, there had been no formal reunions. The secretaries (now called Form Agents) were to get in touch with members of their respective forms and arrange for such gatherings. Twenty-fifth reunions were to be stressed. Hart was appointed secretary of 1888. This appointment seemed to revive in him his old love for the School.

That he made his Twenty-fifth Reunion a grand success is a fact as stated in the Alumni Horae of that year. He had twenty-five men back. They were given a house for their three-day visit. They held a service in the Old Chapel, with Mrs. James Knox at the organ. They marched to the cemetery and laid flowers on the graves of Dr. Henry Coit, Dr. Joseph Coit and Mr. Hargate, and it was his Form of 1888 that began the custom of presenting to the School a substantial sum of money—a custom since kept up at Twenty-fifth Reunions. Hart was the life of the reunion. From that year on, he was a most enthusiastic Alumnus.

He was elected to the Standing Committee and was President of the Alumni Association in 1916 and 1917. His whole-hearted leadership soon put new life into that body. He was elected to the Board of Trustees in 1917 which position he held until 1940 when he resigned because of ill health. As a trustee his work for the School was far-reaching and in some respects unique. His advice was sought, especially on matters pertaining to the physical side of the place. As chairman of the Committee on Grounds and Buildings, he was responsible for the maps and block plans made by C. Z. Clauder of Philadelphia.

Apart from substantial sums given to the Endowment Fund, the Rector’s Fund, and the two War Memorial Funds, Hart made the old reservoir into a swimming-pool (later abandoned for sanitary reasons). He presented the bronze statue of St. Paul which stands near the main entrance to the Chapel, and he also presented the beautiful shrine which stands in the woods near the Upper Pond. To encourage boxing he gave the Hart Boxing Belt and he established the Outdoor Cup — one of the most coveted prizes at the School. Hart’s gifts to the School were many and varied, including such items as a replica of Edison’s first lamp, books and memorabilia, autographs and letters of noted men and a fragment of the Blarney Stone. The seedlings and descendants of famous trees which he presented include those from the Cedars of Lebanon, mulberry tree planted by Shakespeare, Washington Elm (Cambridge), Charter Oak (Hartford), Penn Charter Oak (Philadelphia), Napoleon willows and many others. Most of these trees are now flourishing.

In a letter from the Rector, recently received by the writer, is the following paragraph: “One of the delightful things about Dr. Hart’s donations to the School was their unexpectedness and their wide variety. For example, one morning the whole Study building was startled by a shriek from the Rector’s secretary who had opened a package from Dr. Hart and found that it contained two shrunken Peruvian heads — human! You may be sure we shall miss his packages.”

THE FORM AGENTS’ DINNER

The Form Agents gathered for their annual dinner on January 18th at the Racquet and Tennis Club of New York. The evening’s proceedings were started by a toast to Mr. Kittredge and we were indeed delighted and honored to have him as our guest again this year.

Our new Chairman, Albert Francke, Jr., ’20, spoke first and introduced the Form Agents who were taking on their duties for the first time this year: Theodosius F. Stevens, ’96; Ralph C. McLeod, ’21; Adolph G. Rosengarten, Jr., ’23; Richard B. McAdoo, ’38; H. Allen Holmes, ’50 (Princeton); and David E. Lindh, ’50 (Yale). He then presented us with some suggested material for the 1951 campaign. The tenor of this was that while in the past the emphasis had been laid on the number of contributors and while this was still important we should attempt to raise the sights on the individual gifts. It was pointed out that the Alumni Fund makes a very real contribution towards the scholarships available to students at the School and that if we asked for larger gifts from the contributors we would be encouraging a very material benefit to the annual scholarship fund. We were then exhorted to do better than ever this year, despite the fact that the last two years were successive records.

Our Chairman concluded by introducing the next speaker, the President of the Alumni Association and Form Agent for 1911, Ranald H. Macdonald. Mr. Macdonald praised the work of his fellow agents and pointed to the great necessity of our labors in view of the expected current deficit at the School, the elimination of the once substantial reserves for extraordinary expenses, and the expectation of a continued rise in costs.

Mr. Kittredge introduced his evening’s of copal Church to the dwell.

Mr. Charles H. Killridge, he stated, that at the present time it was fortunate indeed in the group which they now have teaching the boys. On the average they were young, intuitive, sympathetic, genial and intelligent. Mr. Kittredge concluded with further expressions of gratitude for the wonderful feeling of comfort and support given him by the work of the Form Agents and all the loyal Alumni. He then turned the floor over to Anthony McKim, '15. After Mr. McKim had led the singing of “Salve Mater” in several keys, we adjourned.

In addition to Mr. Kittredge, the following Form Agents were present: Richard A. Zerega, '83; Hugh E. Potts, '35; Charles R. Hickox, '89; Eugene D. Alexander, '92; Theodosius F. Stevens, '96; Arthur E. Neergaard, '99; Frank J. Sullivan, '00; Clarence H. Young, '01; Percy S. Brown, '02; Stuart D. Preston, '02; E. Laurence White, '03; Dr. David N. Barrows, '04; Francis W. Murray, Jr., '05; J. Dunbar Cass, '06; W. Roy Manny, '08; Ranald H. Macdonald, '11; Charles D. McDuffie, '12; Francis H. Bohlen, Jr., '13; Anthony L. McKim, '15; Robert G. Payne, '16; Fergus Reid, Jr., '19; Albert Francke, Jr., '20; Ralph C. McLeod, '21; Gardner D. Stout, '22; Adolph G. Rosengarten, Jr., '23; Henry A. Wilmerding, '25; Grayson M.-P. Murphy, '26; Laurance B. Rand, '27; Marshall J. Dodge, '29; J. Randall Williams, 3rd, '30; Francis Day Rogers, '31; Walter B. Terry, '31; Derek Richardson, '35; E. Laurence White, Jr., '36; Colton P. Wagner, '37; Richard B. McAdoo, '38; John P. Humes, '39; William Adams, Jr., '40; Seymour H. Knox, III, '44; Albert Tilt, III, '46; John P. Bankson, Jr., '48; H. Allen Holmes, '50; and David E. P. Lindh, '50.

THE 1950 NEW YORK HOCKEY GAME
PRINCETON FRESHMEN — 2; ST. PAUL'S SCHOOL — 1
MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, DECEMBER 20

This year's hockey game for the benefit of the school camp for underprivileged boys located at Danbury, New Hampshire, was again held in Madison Square Garden in New York on Wednesday, December 20. The opponents were the Princeton Freshmen who broke a tie late in the final period to take a very exciting game by a score of 2 to 1. The School team, badly handicapped by lack of ice during early December, seemed slightly outclassed in the early part of the game but found themselves very quickly and in the last period, in spite of the score, were definitely outplaying their opponents. The defeat therefore was a disappointment to all of us at the game who were quite confident that St. Paul's would win in the overtime period, which appeared certain just before the final Princeton goal 31 seconds before the bell. The net receipts were $2,886.58, about $800 less than last year but a sum well above normal average for the game.

The committee mentioned last year that it felt that the two most important factors to build up attendance at this game were a late date to assure the attendance of other schools on vacation and playing another school rather than a university team. As the Garden is available only on Wednesdays we are faced with a December 19 date in 1951. Thus we feel that it again is most important to try to schedule a school game rather than a college game.

In view of the serious lack of ice during the past several years, there has been considerable talk, both at school and among the Alumni, of the possibility of building an artificial ice rink. It is believed that this could be accomplished following the lead already established by Andover for a very reasonable sum of money and that this rink could be made to carry itself in a very short time. In view of the very definite interest on the part of the Alumni and in view also of money which the school may shortly have available for this and other projects, the committee urges that very serious consideration be given to the possibility of an artificial ice rink. If mild winters are to continue, St. Paul's may find it more and more difficult to maintain its reputed proficiency in ice hockey amongst schools and colleges which have the daily benefits of artificial ice.

After the game last December Mrs. Gardner Stout and Mrs. Arthur Bingham entertained the team and their guests at tea. They deserve a tremendous amount of thanks for their generous hospitality. The committee would like to suggest that in 1951 and in years to come a small reception be given following the game for not only the team and their guests but all friends of the school who would care to attend. It is hoped that Mrs. Kittredge and the Rector and other masters and their wives will assist in receiving and that a nominal charge be made to cover expenses, anything above which would be turned over to the school camp. Possibly this could develop into a tea dance which we feel would be a pleasant interlude for everyone concerned.

Following the tea this year, at the annual dinner for the team and the coaches, a possible S.P.S. tradition was started. All fathers of boys on the team were invited as guests. At least a half dozen were able to attend and everyone reportedly had a good time. We hope this will develop into an annual father and son affair which will unite old hockey players and their sons after all future games at the Garden.

EDITORIALS
This issue of the ALUMNI HORAE marks the beginning of its thirtieth year. That is a long time in the life of a publication, and the achievement of such an anniversary can properly be an occasion for thinking back gratefully to those who planned and carried out the work through its three decades. A school inevitably must ask of those who serve it much toil above and beyond their duty or their compensation. The many who have kept the ALUMNI HORAE going, issue after issue, have believed they were working in a good cause; their time and efforts were measured out accordingly.

Many changes have come over the field of S.P.S. publications since this magazine was started, some of them perhaps having the effect of making its role seem less crucial. The “Pelican” and the “Pictorial,” along with the Horae Scholasticae, can bring to the Alumni body a lively picture of life at the School. The recently founded “S.P.S. News” reports briefly on developments both at the School and among Alumni. But these are prepared and edited for particular audiences: the first three primarily for the boys themselves, the last for the wider public that has, or may be induced to have, an interest in St. Paul’s. There is still need of a publication edited by Alumni and addressed directly to them, giving essential information about the School, about the Alumni Association, and about the activities of their friends and classmates. This function the ALUMNI HORAE strives to fulfill.

There are certain changes in organization and format which may help to make the magazine even more useful during its fourth decade; these the editors hope to introduce in due time. They do not hurry, for they are conscious of setting precedents not lighted to be discarded. But neither do they sleep; and they will be happy, in the meantime, to receive from the Alumni body any appropriate ideas or suggestions.

An additional number of copies of the S.P.S. war book has been ordered bound. The total number of sales to date almost precisely reimburses the Alumni Association for expenses incurred in printing the volume. The newly bound copies may be ordered from the office of the Alumni Association and will be on sale at the School over Anniversary.

The fact that one S.P.S. boy has already given his life in a new war adds poignancy and a fresh significance to the sacrifices memorialized in this volume, scarcely a year off the press. We had looked on the faces of these fallen soldiers of World War II as on men whom we knew but yesterday, their memory as green as the present spring. But already there is a new conflict, savage though confined; and we view the dead of the second world war as across a space of history. They take their place with the heroes of former times, though they are still contemporaries. The S.P.S. war book bespeaks a record of which every Alumnus can be proud.

* * * *

The editors of the ALUMNI HORAE scrutinize the New York papers, and thus come to know of many of the activities of Alumni noted in the following pages. The problem is far more difficult in relation to those who live in other parts of the country. May we not ask, particularly, that Old Boys in the South, West and Mid-West take pains to send into this office news of themselves or of their classmates? The “Alumni Notes” are the very heart of the magazine.
ALUMNI ACTIVITIES

Recent Books by S.P.S. Alumni

A number of volumes by Old Boys have recently appeared, bearing witness to the varied pursuits and intellectual interests of the Alumni body. Last Summer Arthur Gordon, '30, published Reprisal, (New York: Simon and Schuster) a novel built around a lynching in a Southern town, which won critical acclaim and achieved a large sale. The book reviewer of the N. Y. Times called it "an intelligent and thrilling melodrama with social implications."

A volume of memoirs by Joseph Clark Baldwin, '16, was published in the early winter under the title Flowers for the Judge (New York: Coward-McCann). The book deals largely with Mr. Baldwin's father, Joseph Clark Baldwin, '39, a rural justice of the peace who presided with affability and authority over his large household. The book is written, as the N. Y. Herald Tribune noted, "with affection, intimacy, naturalness, a command of anecdote;" and the same reviewer characterizes the author, who was in Congress from 1941 to 1947, as "an incurably festive and modest man."

Bears in the Caviar (New York: Lippincott) by Charles W. Thayer, '28, has been hailed as an "hilarious and unorthodox story . . . the most entertaining volume on the whole shelf of American diplomatic memoirs." Mr. Thayer relates his experiences in the American Embassy in Moscow when it was re-established in the early '30s. The bear, it seems, slid into the caviar at one of Ambassador Bullitt's first big parties; there were other strange and wondrous occurrences which find their way into the story of one whom The Herald Tribune calls "a high spirited young American." This book, more than a course of lectures, should be influential in persuading S.P.S. boys that public service can be a rewarding career.

Volume VI of Samuel Eliot Morison's, '03, history of naval operations in the Second World War has recently been published. Breaking the Bismarcks Barrier, (Boston: Atlantic-Little Brown) deals with allied offensives in the South Pacific under Admiral Halsey and General MacArthur, against the Bismarcks Barrier and its pivotal fortress, Rabaul. The history, says a critic, continues as it began — "as a report direct from the bridge. Morison knew these engagements and the men who led them at first hand. . . . The result is a superior example of the historian's craft and an absorbing narrative."

The Rev. Dr. J. Spencer Kennard, '09, has published Render to God, (New York: Oxford University Press) the fifth book to come from his pen and the first to be published in this country. An immensely learned book, this deals with the life of Jesus, early Christianity, and the general bearing of early Christianity upon politics. Interpreting the familiar words of the title against the contemporary background, Dr. Kennard musters proof contrary to the traditional belief that Jesus endorsed the tribute to Caesar.

Arthur Stanwood Pier, '90, has recently completed a book giving biographical sketches of outstanding public servants who since the Spanish-American war have dedicated themselves to the development of the Philippine Islands. It is called Apostles to the Philippines, (Boston: the Beacon Press) and ranges from Admiral George Dewey to Bishop Brent.

Finally, a forgotten Mayan city, long buried in the jungles of northern Peten, is the subject of the archeological record Uaxactum, Guatemala: Excavations of 1931-37, (Washington: Carnegie Institution) by A. Ledyard Smith, '21.
